Necessary To Raise Revenue For That Lost

Such Is Statement From President On Tax Revision

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP) President Roosevelt said today he would favor repeal of the undistributed profits tax provided some other method was found to prevent what he called legal tax evasion by the wealthy.

In a lengthy discussion of taxes at a press conference, the President emphasized again his contention that in place of any corporation levies repealed there would have to be found substitute taxes to bring in the same amount of revenue.

He said the treasury would submit to congressional committees results of its tax studies but that they would not necessarily be in the form of recommendations.

Mr. Roosevelt said those who have been clamoring for removal of deterrents to business in the tax structure had failed to point out how to raise the revenue that would be lost.

He added some of these persons, in advocating such repeal were deliberately trying to remove restrictions on legal tax avoidance.

The senate military committee, meanwhile, approved by a 12 to 2 vote a bill by Senator Lee (D-Okla) to draft money in wartime for forcing citizens with a net worth of $1,000 or more to buy 50-year government 1 per cent bonds.

The action came after Senator Bridges (R-NH) had challenged action by the committee last week in approving the measure unanimously at a meeting at which a quorum of the 17 committee members was not present.

Bridges and Senator Gurney (R-SD) voted against the bill today and Bridges announced that he would file a minority report.

Those present and voting for the bill were Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) and Senators Logan (D-Ky), Johnson (D-Colo), Lee (D-Okla), Schwartz (D-Wyo), Hill (D-Ala), Downey (D-Calif), and Slattery (D-Ill). Senators Reynolds (D-NC), Minton (D-Ind), Lundeen (FL-Minn) and Nye (R-ND) voted for the bill by proxy.

Senators Thomas (D-Utah), Austin (R-Vt) and Holman (R-Ore) were absent and unrecorded.

The President got into the tax discussion after he had been asked about his recent conferences with treasury and congressional leaders. He said these had been primarily explorative and

Pete Salley One Of Three Indicted

KANSAS CITY, May 12.—(AP)—The federal grand jury struck another blow at narcotics activities in Kansas City today when it indicted the alleged head and the chief lieutenant of a drug ring said to be a rival of a syndicate uncovered several weeks ago.

Named in the indictments were Tudie Lascoula, who the government charges, headed the drug combine and Pete Q. Salley, said by Assistant United States District Attorney Richard K. Phelps, to be his chief lieutenant. Also indicted was Calvatore Bonacorso.

Phelps said the ring uncovered by the latest grand jury investigation operated as a rival of the syndicate allegedly headed by Angelo Donnici, who is in jail under federal indictments charging him with violations of the narcotic laws.

The government charges Donnici headed a drug combine that did an annual business of $12,000,000.

Lascoula was named in two indictments charging him with illegal sale of narcotics. Salley was indicted on three counts of sale, concealment and transportation of narcotics.

Salley, federal agents in Kansas City stated over the telephone formerly operated a night club in Sedalia, and is a native of Benton county, near Warsaw.

Senate Approves Reorganization

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP) The senate approved President Roosevelt's second government reorganization plan today.

He has not been arrested.

Feeders Day Held

Due to an erroneous report, it was announced in Wednesday morning's paper that there would be a Feeders Day Program next Sunday at the College of Agriculture at the University of Missouri. This program was held last Sunday, and there will be no Feeders Day at Columbia next Sunday.

Banker Quizzed By Federal Jury

KANSAS CITY, May 12—(AP)—Thornton Cooke, president of the Columbia National bank, was questioned today by the federal grand jury investigating income tax affairs of Tom Pendergast.

Waiting to testify were Walter Colburn and H. M. Kleifield, executives of Pendergast construction companies.

Payroll trimming continued at the courthouse and John B. Pew, county counselor, said a pay cut of perhaps 10 per cent for workers seems quite as imminent as the dismissal of "at least 100 more" persons.

About 100 have been discharged this month since financial problems came to light.

"We must save from $30,000 to $37,000 a month," Pew said. "When the May payrolls come through you'll see them pared. I have recommended the 10 per cent cut in my department."

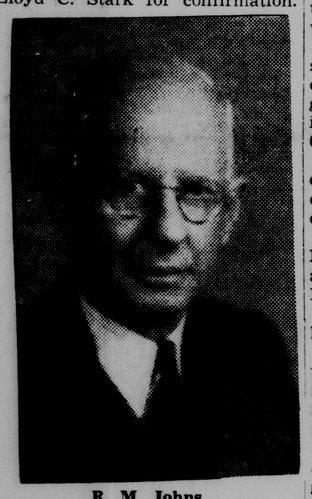
Meanwhile, voting was light in the school board's special election on a proposal to increase its levy from 9 to 10 mills. The real estate board actively opposed the hike.

In precincts long dominated by the Democratic political organization little interest was taken in the balloting.

Sedalian To Regents Board Of C. M. S. T. C.

R. M. Johns Named By Governor On Board Today

R. M. Johns, well known Sedalia lumberman, has been appointed to the board of regents of the State Teachers' College, Warrensburg for a term ending January 1, 1941, to succeed the late Daniel Hoefer, of Higginsville. The appointment was sent to the senate today by Governor Lloyd C. Stark for confirmation.



R. M. Johns

Mr. Johns, who resides at 701 West Broadway, is a charter member and past president of the Sedalia Rotary club, has always been active in civic affairs, and his friends here will heartily approve of the governor's selection.

Three other members of the Warrensburg board were sent up: Col. A. M. Hitch, Boonville; W. F. Woodruff, Kansas City; and Judge Max M. Prussing, Camdenton.

Others submitted were Otto Harting and Thomas L. Farrington, members of the St. Louis police board; and Dr. T. C. Oyler, Brookfield, State Board of Chiropractic Examiners.

Block Move For Federal Funds

JEFFERSON CITY, May 12.—(AP)—The senate blocked today an attempt to obtain federal money for Missouri's insufficient blind pension fund.

A vote of 14 to 11 defeated a bill by senators, Allen McReynolds, (D), Carthage and George Rozier (R), Perryville, which would have based state payments on need to qualify for an estimated $1,000,000 annually of government funds.

Last biennium the state constitutional 3-cent blind fund levy failed by more than $300,000 to pay the flat $25 a month pension to approximately 4,000 eligible persons.

Blind organizations which opposed the bill before committee had objected to the bill's proposed shift of blind aid administration to the social security commission and complained that need requirements would "pauperize" them, declaring they preferred to "take our chances" with the present system even with its present financial difficulties.

The house-passed constitutional amendment to raise the blind levy to 4½ cents is still in a senate committee.

Majority Floor Leader Frank Briggs (D), Macon, said appropriation bills, five of which were reported out of committee last night, would be taken up Tuesday morning.

Slash Is Made Of $800,000 In Appropriations

Committee In Economy Step On Fund Bills

JEFFERSON CITY, May 12—(AP)—An economy determined appropriations committee asked the senate last night to slice nearly $800,000 off five fund bills passed by the house.

The elective officials, state colleges and penal institutions bore the brunt of the committee's hammering on house figures.

Only the eleemcsynary institutions and the highway department escaped — and there wasn't much the committee could do with the $47,000,000 highway appropriation which comes entirely from earmarked road funds.

The bills as recommended by committee make a total demand on general revenue of $23,815,997.

The committee's largest single change was a reduction of $289,000 in the $709,900 allowed the board of the permanent seat of government for maintenance and operation of the state capitol.

Although the University of Missouri was asked to take a slash of $223,116 in its allotment, the committee inserted an extra $100,000 asked for erection of a men's dormitory to make a total grant of $3,874,863 compared with the $3,997,863 given by the house.

The committee condemned a $16,420 allotment to send the University band to the New York and San Francisco fairs and another $10,000 item for an exhibit of Missouri poultry at the World's Poultry congress in Cleveland.

Nearly all classifications of the university's funds were pared with $103,895 coming off the salaries allotment to leave a total of $2,605,060; $63,701 off "operations" for a total of $1,048,037, and $29,100 off "additions." Insertion of a new $100,000 fund for a men's dormitory brought the total for additions up to $221,650, however, which is a net increase of $70,900.

Virtually every department shared the reductions but the agricultural extension service was granted $45,000 of the $75,000 hike it asked, leaving it a total of $270,000.

Four state hospitals were granted increases for equipping newly constructed buildings. The increases approved were:

Hospital No. 1 at Fulton $24,888, No. 2 at St. Joseph $20,000, No. 3 at Nevada $50,000 and No. 4 at Farmington $68,000.

The sanitorium at Mt. Vernon however, was set back $125,000.

Attorney General Roy McKittrick was the only state official recommended by the committee for an increase over the house grant. The committee allowed him $60,000 more but he was denied an extra $50,000 for crime investigations Gov. Lloyd C. Stark ordered in Kansas City and St. Louis.

Other Slashes Urged

The governor was marked for a reduction of $22,100 from the $105,600 given him by the house.

Cuts urged for other state officials included $12,300 for Secretary of State Dwight Brown, $25,000 for State Auditor Forrest Smith's sales tax collection department and $96,912 for Superintendent of Schools Lloyd King.

Of the 12 bills which make up the state's biennial appropriations, only four now remain to be acted upon by committee. Three are already in the governor's hands.

In the first night session, the senate passed by a vote of 18 to 9, a bill authorizing Missouri to participate with the federal government in construction of a Mississippi valley parkway. The proposed highway and park project would run from Minnesota to the Gulf of Mexico.

The measure, introduced in the house by Majority Leader Roy Hamlin (D), Hannibal, and others, was riddled with amendments during the two days of senate consideration and so will need concurrence by the lower chamber before it can be sent to the governor.

As finally approved by the senate, the bill provides for a survey of the proposed project, but specifies federal funds must be available before the state can join in any construction.

Retail Trade Gets Better

NEW YORK, May 12—(AP)—Both retail and wholesale activities in the nation's marts showed encouraging expansion during the past week, the Dun & Bradstreet weekly review reported today.

"Retail sales improved rather sharply," the survey asserted, "and wholesale trade benefited both from an influx of reorders and from a heavier volume of advance orders on staple fall merchandise.

"On the whole the picture seemed somewhat brighter than a few week ago, although there was as yet nothing to indicate any sharp reversal in the trend."

Retail business for the country as a whole was estimated by the review at 5 to 10 per cent over a year ago.

'Local Boy Makes Good'

The caption to the above cut may be hackneyed, but to the local boy who does make good, it still has a satisfying flavor. Raymond P. Brandt, better known to his Sedalia cronies as "Pete," has won distinction. His jocular expression of: "The local boy makes good" caption, made to George H. Trader, president and general manager of the Sedalia Democrat Co., who was present when "Pete" concluded his acceptance speech in Columbia Thursday is herewith confirmed. Brandt is shown above receiving from Dean Frank L. Martin (left) the Journalism School medal award for distinguished service in journalism. Centennial For The Lutherans

Two Services On Sunday At Liberty Park Hall

(By Church Reporter)

On Sunday the Sedalia Circuit of the Lutheran Church will observe the Centennial of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio, and other states, with which it is affiliated. This large Lutheran denomination, with a membership of one and a third million souls, had its rise in the immigration of 665 Lutherans from Germany in the year 1839.

Unable to worship God in their homeland according to the Lutheran faith, the Saxon immigrants chartered five ships and came to the United States of America because it guaranteed to them religious liberty.

The Saxon Lutherans settled in and near St. Louis, Missouri, and soon made their presence felt among all Lutherns in the United States by the introduction of a democratic form of church life. The rapid growth of their denomination has been due in part to its democratic form of church government, according to which each congregation is sovereign and Synod only an advisory body.

The Saxon immigrants came to America with the intention never to return to their native land. They came to stay, and from the very beginning they looked upon America as their homeland, to which they owed their allegiance.

The great leader of the Saxon immigrants, Dr. Ferdinand Walther, in a sermon on the Fouth of July, fourteen years after the imimgration, declared:

"Thrice blessed may this day be! On it the foundation of a State was laid in which freedom of religion and conscience has been made a principle of government. Blessed be this land in which we enjoy this freedom . . . As citizens of this country let us work zealously,

Good Old Handshakes Loom For King And Queen

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP)—The minute fraction of the nation's population which actually will meet the King and Queen of Great Britain here next month is getting ready for good old American handshakes.

For weeks, these men and women have been batted back and forth between the curtsy-or-don't, bow-or-faint schools of thought. The final concensus is that being Americans, they will act as Americans usually do at white house and other formal functions.

Officials point out that President and Mrs. Roosevelt will be standing in line with the King and Queen when most of their big moments come. And Americans have been shaking their president's hands for years. Some bow slightly; others don't.

Not many men want to appear ludicrous by saying "how-do-you-do" to the president, then bowing low and backing off from the King and Queen, only to walk forward again for Mrs. Roosevelt's handshake.

The best guess here is that very few women except the wives of foreign diplomats and English citizens—will curtsy at the white house. At the British embassy bows and curties will be a matter of choice.

At a Danish legation reception last Sunday for the Danish crown prince and princess, some officials' wives curtsied. Others did not.

The state department steadfastly has refused to play Emily Post. Protocol experts take the attitude that they have no more business dictating how people should behave then they have telling them what to wear.

Record Farm Bill Is Passed In The Senate

Measure Goes To House Increased By $338,000,000

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP) A record $1,218,000,000 farm appropriation bill passed the senate today.

The vote on final passage was announced by Senator Hatch (D-NM) presiding, as 61 to 14. Earlier, the senate defeated 42 to 28 a motion to send the bill back to its appropriations committee for reduction.

The bulky annual agriculture measure now goes back to the house for consideration of more than $338,000,000 in increases.

The senate failed to decrease a single item previously approved by the house but inserted or increased more than 100 items.

Most of the funds in the big bill would be used in an effort to improve farm income and prices, either through direct benefit payments to farmers or government programs to remove farm surpluses.

The senate approved $225,000,000, for parity payments to farmers in addition to $500,000,000 for soil conservation checks. It also added $113,000,000 for removal of farm surpluses.

These and scores of lesser items were expected to cause a lengthy conference between the house and senate because the house had rejected most of these increases previously.

Before passing the measure, the senate had blocked an amendment to authorize a cotton export subsidy plan.

Just before passage, the senate refused by a vote of 42 to 28 to send the measure back to its appropriations committee for elimination of the benefits the senate had added to the house-approved bill.

The motion was offered as an economy move, by Senator Johnson (D-Colo).

Earlier, Chairman Glass (D-Va) of the senate appropriations committee had failed in an effort to win senate reconsideration of the vote approving the additional benefits.

Glass, an economy advocate, is chairman of the senate appropriations committee. Under senate rules, his motion for reconsideration of the additional farm benefits required unanimous consent. It was blocked by Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis), who said in a loud voice "I object."

Those trying to reduce the size of the bill planned another move, however. They agreed to support a motion to send the entire $1,218,000,000 agriculture measure back to the appropriations committee with instructions to make reductions.

May Payment To Dependents

JEFFERSON CITY, May 12.—(AP)—May aid to dependent children payments totaling $199,522, $2,000 less than in April, went cut to 10,361 Missouri families today.

The average payment per family, $19.26, was just a penny less than last month but there were 89 fewer cases on the rolls.

The $19.26 average compares with $30.18 last January, peak month for the program. After January, the Social Security Commission was forced to trim the payments sharply in line with a cut in temporary legislative appropriations.

May payments by counties included:

Boone $2,649, Buchanan $4,317, Butler $1,371, Cape Girardeau $1.303, Cole $981, Greene $8,978, Grundy $1,416, Jackson $8,450, Jasper $15,981, Livingston $1,129, Marion $1,310, Nodaway $1,703, Pettis $2,273, Randolph $2,334, St. Louis City $32,819; St. Louis County $3,896, and Vernon $1,770.

Will Write Of Visit By Royalty

NEW YORK, May 12—(AP)—Frank H. King, veteran Associated Press writer who spent 20 years reporting foreign news events, arrived in Quebec, Canada, today for his month-long assignment with King George and Queen Elizabeth.

He will accompany the royal party throughout their precedent-breaking visit to Canada and the United States.

King spent close to 18 years in the London bureau of the Associated Press, the last several as chief of bureau, before returning to the United States to become chief of bureau at Dallas, Texas, in charge of the largest domestic state service.

Fully acquainted with the London scene and possessing a political and economic background that quickens his understanding of significent events, King will interpret the visit of the royal party as well as cover spot news developments concerned with the coast-to-coast Canadian tour and the three day visit in this country.

Miners And Operators End Their Deadlock

Body Of Child Is Found In River

EMINENCE, Mo., May 12—(AP)—The body of three year old Dean Williams, subject of an extensive hunt in the Ozarks area north of here, since he disappeared Tuesday, was found in the rain-swollen Current river at shortly before noon today. It had lodged in willows.

The child, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams, farmers, strayed away from the family farm home while Mrs. Williams was busy with household duties. His tracks led to a point near the river.

Dynamite was used earlier today in the river in an effort to raise the body since many persons believed the child had drowned, while others searched the surrounding hills.

Accord Reached After Impasse Of Eight Weeks

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP)—The joint bituminous negotiations subcommittee agreed today, after a deadlock of eight weeks, on a new contract between the United Mine Workers of America (CIO) and the Appalachian operators, covering wage and hour conditions for 346,000 miners in eight states.

Dr. John R. Steelman, conciliator of the U. S. labor department, said the contract would include the "union shop" clause which John L. Lewis, CIO chieftain and president of the UMWA, had insisted upon. It was this demand which had deadlocked the negotiations.

The spokesman for the operators, W. L. Robison, of Cleveland, said a drafting committee would edit the contract and report back to the joint subcommittee.

The joint committee of operators and miners meets later to consider adoption of the contract.

Subsequently the meeting of the general conference was postponed to 3 P. M. C. S. T.

The Appalachian conference consists of 21 coal associations in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, eastern Kentucky, West Virginia, central Tennessee, Michigan and western Virginia, and employs about 346,000 miners.

Some May Not Agree

It could not be determined how many operators would agree to the new contract. Those who do not, however, could register their disapproval by withdrawing from the 6-year-old conference.

Southern district operators have opposed the "union shop" provision consistently and before the agreement was announced spokesmen for the southern area said there was a possibility of a split with the northern group. Whether the agreement forestalled this could not be learned.

A spokesman for the southern operators said in Knoxville, Tenn., however, that this group would not accept without further consideration the tentative agreement and that a meeting of those operators in Knoxville would be necessary.

The union shop means that all new employes must join the UMWA within a specified time, although old employes not now members are not required to do so. This differs from a "closed shop" in that all employes must join a union under such an agreement.

Robison said the joint Appalachian conference of miners and operators would convene later in the day.

Lewis announced yesterday he also had called back the miners' scale committee, which would be asked to ratify any action taken by the subcommittee.

Under the new contract, which would send approximately 346,000 miners back to the soft coal pits next Monday, the same wages and hours which were embodied

Annual Dinner Held By Retail Credit Group

Oliver Selle In Business Talk At The Bothwell

Following a banquet in the Hotel Bothwell Thursday night at the annual meeting of the Sedalia Retail Credit Association, officers were installed by J. C. Patterson, secretary of the Marshall Chamber of Commerce, who said they should be men of high integrity and business ability and that leadership for business should be non-partisan.

Those heading the organization are as follows: Claude Boul, re-elected president, manager of the Sedalia Industrial Loan Co., E. T. Mattingly, vice-president, manager Public Loan Corporation; Miss Vivian Denny, treasurer, credit manager Montgomery Ward & Co., and Gilbert V. Jones, re-elected secretary.

Preceding the dinner, Rabbi Nathan E. Barasch, of Temple Beth El., offered an invocation. Burney Morriss with Miss Dorothy Bockelman accompanist, led in the singing of "pep" songs by the nearly one hundred attending. Mr. Morriss also gave solo numbers.

Davis Program Chairman

President Boul then announced plans for a program chairman for each month. He named Clint Davis chairman for the remainder of this month and for June, a position he has filled during the past year.

Mr. Davis introduced Oliver Selle of St. Louis, a retail jeweler who is recognized as an authority on merchandising. He spoke on "Your Side, My Side and the Right Side of Business," giving concrete suggestions for the conduct of a successful business.

Mr. Selle stated there were certain fundamental rules for everyone in business, whether in the professional or mercantile line. He asserted business was built on the "plan, plan, plan" method and urged businessmen not to worry as it was impossible to worry things out.

Opportunities are presented today such as have never before arisen, he said, and to take advantage of these and bring desired progress, aggressiveness is necessary.

Attractive Display

Mr. Selle suggested the use of well lighted storerooms, with goods properly displayed and with windows trimmed attractively. Personality and a hearty welcome to the buying public were also cited as a necessary asset to successful leadership in business.

Mr. Selle asserted the business laws were very rigid, the strictest in the world and warned against breaking them, because he said, it cuts down the "cold cash".

As to credits, Mr. Selle said, there were "many angles" and that business men should be prepared to readily extend credit without delay, or else possibly lose patronage in this day of new ideas and rapid business transactions. He warned against keeping a customer waiting for a day or so, to ascertain whether his credit is good, before selling to him.

The banquet was given on the birthday of Mr. Davis, the program chairman, and a bouquet was presented to Mrs. Davis in honor of the occasion. Mrs. Bonnie Wilson also received an attractive sheaf of blossoms.

Accompanying Mr. Patterson from Marshall were Mrs. Patterson and Miss Doris Berlin.

Necessary To Raise Revenue For That Lost

he did not know what was going to happen.

Brings Up Large Question

Asked whether he favored a revision of the corporate income taxes, some of which expire this year, the President said that brought up a large question.

He added there had been a lot of lose talk about deterrent taxes and then went on to say that cigarette smokers and farmers might well contend that taxes on them were deterrent. For example, he said, if a farmer paid less taxes he would have more money to clothe his wife.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that if the series of corporation levies which have been talked about were repealed he and every leader in congress agreed they would have to be made up from taxes on corporations as a whole.

Some persons favoring repeal wanted no substitutes, he said, adding that in common honesty the revenue replacement angle should be prominent in all newspaper stories on the subject.

He said there were many ways to raise the flat income tax, now ranging from 12½ per cent on smaller corporations to 19 per cent on large ones.

Need Huge Revenue

If the other levies, including the capital stock, excess profits and other levies, were repealed, the President continued, about $250,000,000 in revenue would have to be found.

He said that to spread this increase over the straight percentage levy would cause the little corporations to squawk, adding there were 160,000 corporations making less than $10,000 a year.

Mr. Roosevelt asked whether, as a matter of practical politics, congress was going to put that burden on the little fellows.

He said the answer was no.

He then asked whether congress would dare to put the increase on medium sized corporations and gave the same answer.

The next result, he declared, would be that it would have to come out of the pockets of a very small number of large corporations. There again, there would be a squawk, he said, adding that the matter would have to be worked out by congressional committees.

As for the undistributed profits tax, greatly modified in the 1938 tax law which went on the books without the President's signature, Mr. Roosevelt asserted there was good reason behind that levy two years ago.

He said it was proposed to prevent closely held corporations owned by rich men from continuing to leave their profits in their companies without paying income taxes on them.

By leaving such profits in companies until the deaths of the owners, he said such persons had to pay only an inheritance tax which was much smaller than the income tax in the higher brackets.

Round Of Conferences

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP)—A round of conferences among administration officials and congressional leaders emphasized today the possibility of business tax revision at this session, but simultaneously Senator Barkley (D)Ky) suggested postponing action until next year.

Barkley said he thought that perhaps the best plan would be to instruct the treasury and members of house and senate tax committees to make an intensive study of the situation after congress adjourns.

They could bring recommendations to congress in January, and even though 1940 is an election year and members would want to quit early, Barkley said they probably would stay on the job if there were prospects of aiding business.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee, where tax bills originate, said, however, that as soon as the committee finished studying social security act amendments, the treasury would be invited to submit any information on taxes it deemed expedient.

Confer With President

Doughton and Representative Cooper (D-Tenn), chairman of the ways and means tax sub-committee, conferred with President Roosevelt Tuesday and later with Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the senate finance committee. Doughton talked taxes yesterday with Secretary Morgenthau.

Doughton said Mr. Roosevelt, as far as he knew, had not "clased the door" to eliminating taxes which have ben criticized as business deterrents.

But persons who follow tax developments closely got the impression the administration would not come forward of its own volition with definite recommendations along that line. Specific proposals for revamping the tax statutes, they explained, might put the administration in the position of retreating on some of its earlier actions.

One such tax is the levy on profits which corporations retain instead of paying out in dividends. The tax has been reduced to a mere remnant, and that expires next year, but business interests have been hammering for complete repeal at once.

The president, however, repeatedly has upheld the principle of the undistributed profits levy.

That was one factor indicating the treasury might submit to congress, without recommendations, only the results of its extensive tax studies.

No one at the capitol has yet produced a well-rounded set of tax law changes designed to help business. But it has been generally understood that some of the points the treasury was prepared to discuss were:

Substitution of a flat corporation income tax up to 22 per cent for the present undistributed profits, capital stock and excess profits levies.

Revision of the capital gains tax.

Reduction of the maximum rate of individual income taxes from 75 to 60 per cent to provide an incentive for investment of capital in productive enterprises. Adjustments would be made in the middle brackets to offset any loss in revenue.

in the old contract will prevail. This is a basic pay of $6 in northern mines and $5.60 in the south for a 35 hour week of five days. The old contract, which ran for two years, expired on March 31.

The mines in the Appalachian area — Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, eastern Kentucky, West Virginia, central Tennessee, Michigan and western Virginia—closed April 1.

Last week mines in the sixteen outlying states closed when their contracts expired. These mines usually sign contracts based on the terms of the Appalachian area.

The closing of the mines was followed by increasing reports of dwindling coal supplies and threats that industries here and there would be affected unless a settlement were reached at once.

Extend Present Contract

NEW YORK, May 12—(AP)—Anthracite operators and miners agreed today to extend the present contract to midnight May 20, the third such extension made pending the outcome of negotiations on the contract which expired April thirtieth.

The extension was agreed upon today after an hour's discussion by the operators and U. M. W. in separate meetings.

Dr. John R. Steelman and James F. Dewey, federal conciliators had appeared at a joint session previously and urged the extensioin.

Sign In Illinois

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP)—United Mine Workers and operators of the Illinois mines employing them signed today a contract granting a "union shop" and providing for the immediate return to work of approximately 25,000 men idle for a week.

Seek Independent Contracts

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., May 12.—(AP)—Mine union representatives of this area said today they had not been officially informed of the Appalachian settlement, but that negotiations will be started with coal operators for independent contracts and that many mines probably will reopen next week.

The union men said they anticipated little or no change in the wage scale, or the working hours. Approximately 3,000 miners in 70 mines in Clay, Ray, Lafayette and Davies counties will be affected by the negotiations.

Some operators were reported to be unwilling to sign new contracts on the old basis because the wage scale, they claimed would make the cost of production prohibitive.

Aid Offered In Crushing Ring

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—(AP)—The federal government's crime-crushing organization was offered its full aid in tearing down the east's huge insurance-murder syndicate, it was said here today.

Working at top speed to clear a tangle of fantastic evidence in time for mass trials starting in ten days, the Philadelphia investigators said they received word the facilities of the Federal Bureau of Investigation would be available on request.

District Attorney Charles F. Kelley did not immediately ask federal co-operation, but said aid would be welcome.

If the department of justice steps in, it was indicated, its aid primarily would be in tracing down fugitives and in making its laboratories available for analyses of poisons and other examination.

Already police list more than two score persons slain and estimate the toll may have been 100.

Federal agents are interested in the ring largely because the investigation has shown it extended from an eastern Pennsylvania headquarters into New York, New Jersey, Delaware and, detectives said, possibly through the entire east.

Meanwhile, right after hearings in which 13 men and women were held for trial or further hearings, two more bodies were ordered exhumed for poison tests.

The bodies were those of Abraham Sherman and Antonio Giacobbe. Their widows are among 24 persons held as members, customers and "dupes" of the ring which police say may have plotted more than 100 deaths by poison, drowning and faked accidents in the last 10 years.

Charges Actor Slapped Her

LOS ANGELES, May 12—(AP)—John Barrymore, the suave lover of the screen, slapped her face in Hollywood and kicked her shins in St. Louis, his dark-haired fourth wife, Elaine, charged today as she demanded for the second time a divorce to end their 30-month marriage.

The 23-year-old actress—who met the husband twice her age in a New York hospital in 1935, changed her surname from Jacobs to Barrie out of admiration, followed him in their celebrated "ariel nad caliban" transcontinental game of tag and finally wed him in Yuma, Ariz., in November, 1936—signed a complaint similar in many points to one she filed in January, 1937.

She described again a gay New Year's eve party at a night club soon after the wedding, during which she said her face was slapped she reiterated claims that he called her vile names and threatened her life.

There were additions, too, to the list of things she said disturbed their happiness. One was the allegation of shin-kicking last April 25, eight days after they separated in the midst of a tour with the stage play, "My Dear Children." She accused him of criticizing her acting ability and finally asking her to leave the cast.

But most embarrassing, the complaint recited, was his filing of a suit last week asserting that she and others defrauded him of $300,000—a charge she took occasion to deny.

Other demands were for "reasonable alimony" from an income which she estimated at $5,000 weekly, appointment of a receiver for his property, a division of community holdings and an injunction to restrain him from disposing of them. Barrymore, now in Chicago, was ordered to appear here May 19 to show cause the receiver should not be appointed and a restraining order issued.

Braves Bullets To Save Baby

SIDNEY, Neb., May 12—(AP)—Sheriff W. W. Schulz, veteran western Nebraska peace officer, braved a hail of bullets Thursday to rescue 14-month-old Jimmy Sulcer from the barricaded room of his crazed father and ended a eight hour reign of terror in an isolated farm house northeast of here.

The father, James W. Sulcer, defying a tear gas attack, shot and killed himself after the baby's rescue.

Appearing this morning at the farm where his estranged wife was living, Sulcer shot and wounded his sister-in-law, Mrs. Richard Keefe, when she sought to drive him away with a single-tree, the sheriff said.

Sulcer, 42, a salesman, grabbed his baby and fled to a second floor bedroom. He threatened to kill himself and the child should officers attempt to reach him.

Officers surrounded the house while Schulz, Keefe and Mrs. Sulcer pleaded from downstairs for the child's life.

Finally the 44-year-old sheriff and youthful patrolman Joe Peirano donned gas masks and crept up the stairs.

"We poured a couple of volleys of gas into the room," the sheriff related. "Then the patrolman and I rushed in. We couldn't see Sulcer. I guess he was behind the bed. I grabbed Jimmy and we started down in a hurry and Sulcer began shooting. I guess he emptied his automatic, about nine shot, at us. Some of them were mighty close, but we didn't get hit.

"It got quiet and we slipped up again. We could see him lying on the floor by the bed. He'd shot himself through the head."

Rabbi Barasch Talks To Speakers Club

Rabbi N. E. Barasch compared scientific and religious conceptions of the origin of mankind, and explained how they differ and how they are alike in his address on "Man, the Center of Creation" at the Sedalia Speakers Club meeting Thursday night in the St. Francis Hotel.

Following his talk, president E. W. Kettleson selected for discussion the topic, "Does Life Begin at 40" and each member spoke briefly on the subject, with E. J. Hansman supervising the criticism.

The next meeting will be held at the St. Francis Hotel May 18, and newly elected officers will be installed.

IT'S TRUE! By Wiley Padan

New York, N. Y.—"IT'S TRUE! that Sara Haden's mother, Charlotte Walker, was the original 'June' in the stage production of 'Trail of the Lonesome Pine' that brought fame to George Bancroft and William S. Hart," says Wiley Padan. "Miss Haden is the 'Aunt Milly' of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's 'The Hardys Ride High'.

"IT'S TRUE! that Lewis Stone owns an old English straight razor that has been in the Stone family for 180 years! He is very proud of the razor, for it is the one he used for his first shave!"

Great Achievement Of Alexander Graham Bell Is Symbolic Of America.

The great love that inspired a dreamer to span continents with the human voice is the motivating influence of America's most thrilling story — that of Bell and the invention of the telephone in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," coming Sunday to the Liberty theatre.

The deafness of the lovely Mabel Hubbard inspired the dreamer and eager scientist to his miraculous achievement — the human voice spanning continents through a copper wire! Don Ameche portrays Bell in the film with Loretta Young as Mabel and Henry Fonda as Tom Watson, Bell's assistant. Irving Cummings directed the Cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox with Kenneth Macgowan as associate producer.

Finds Highway Patrol Is Okay

JEFFERSON CITY, May 12—(AP)—A Cole County grand jury gave Missouri's state highway patrol a clean bill of health Thursday after a "thorough investigation" of rumors of "misuse and misconduct by distinguished state officers."

In lengthy instructions given last Feb. 6, circuit judge Nike G. Sevier told the jury to investigate "a flagrant unlawful use of the highway patrol as herald escorts and rear guards x x x at luncheons, football games and sports, fishing expeditions and shopping pleasure jaunts in state owned automobiles."

He urged the jury to "use your fullest powers in investigating the use of the patrol and state property and told them "there is no servant or dignitary of this state beyond your subpoena."

Judge Sevier mentioned no names in his instructions but pointedly called the patrol a "most unique organization" inherited by "the governor of Missouri."

There's a difference in Gasolines, too

All dogs look alike to me, says the man who doesn't know much about them . . . All gasolines are the same, says the motorist who brags that he doesn't know anything about a car except how to drive it.

But those who love animals know that one dog may be a frisky bundle of steel and rubber, while another is sad-eyed and drowsy.

Experienced drivers soon discover similar differences between low test gasoline and high test Phillips 66 Poly Gas. This modern motor fuel demonstrates in your car, because every gallon contains the extra energy added by the scientific POLYmerization process.

You pay nothing extra. You get extra power and more mileage. And this plus performance is protected against change in weather, because Phillips 66 Poly Gas is more accurately custom-tailored, all year round, to the month by month changes in your climate.

'Could They Make Their Voices Heard . . .'

Nobody knows how many men lie buried near the spot at Verdun where the Duke of Windsor made his appeal for peace.

It is certainly not less than 600,000. It may be nearly a million.

These are the men to whom Windsor referred when he said "I am deeply conscious of this great company of the dead, and I am convinced that could they make their voices heard they would be with me . . . ."

Their voices are heard no longer. Some became silent in February of 1916, when the German attack began. Each day, as the attack swelled to its crescendo, more and more men became silent, frequently as many as 10,000 between sun and sun.

The supreme German assault did not come until July, when the gray-green waves swept down from the Douaumont ridge, across the ruins of what had been the village of Fleury, to pile up in horrid windrows against the inner girdle of forts. The mud swallowed up the living and the dead — "puree de cadavres," or corpse soup, the grim French called it.

In October, it was done all over again, the French re-taking the captured fort of Douaumont. Longer and longer rows of men became silent.

* * *

The great French ossuary at Verdud now commemorates 400,000 French and Allied dead. The German loss must have been almost as great.

And, as we generally believe, they are silent, they do not speak any longer. Great stretches of the hills about Verdun lie bare and naked even today, and not even weeds will grow amid the 20-year-old scars of one of the most monumental battles of history.

We say they do not speak any longer, these nameless dead whose strong young bodies were alive one day and food for quicklime the next. And yet—

Windsor was well-advised in his choice of words, as always. He said ". . . could they make their voices heard. . . ."

* * *

They do speak, these dead. They speak with eloquence beyond words and beyond speech.

It is we who will not hear. Coarsened by the years of brutalization that followed the World War, our ears are not attuned to the message from the ossuary at Verdun.

Behind the peace appeal of the exiled British prince, once himself as circumstances permitted, a soldier, there is a vast unearthly mummuring, a soundless sound of men calling from another time and place.

It is not that these dead do not speak. We will not listen. That is the world's tragedy.

New Things, New Words

It's something of a job merely to keep abreast of the English language these days.

Politics has a whole new list of "implementations," "ideologies," and "dialetics." Sociology learns about "finks" and "timelags," and a whole new field of study is described by a term which would have stopped grandfather—"semantics."

Television having made its official bow, we are expected to learn that a "blizzard head" is a blond actress whose hair presents lighting problems. We must learn that a "telecast" is a television broadcast, and that an "iconscope" is a television camera. Maybe only the technicians must learn that a "womp" is a sudden surge in signal strength.

Like everything else, language itself is getting specialized, and it's not easy to keep up on who means what.

Kiss The Boy Goodby

Women have a way of getting what they want.

There's no news in that.

But our hat's off to the young woman in New York who bought an airline ticket, and then, while the airport bus waited, insisted that she could not stir until she had collected a goodby kiss from a handsome passenger agent.

The gallant young man, schooled in a "service for passengers" tradition, willingly and promptly obliged.

Passenger air travel is already ahead of that of last year. But any great extension of this sort of service is going to bring about a boom in air travel that will make 1929 look like a hard times party.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—If you want the key to what Hitler is doing regarding Danzig, all you have to do is go back to May exactly one year ago and the tactics he employed regarding Czechoslovakia.

At that time he opened his first drive for the Sudetenland, but found vigorous opposition from the French and British—so vigorous that any precipitous action by him probably would have meant war.

So he put the Sudetenland pot on the back of the stove to simmer. Later, when there had been enough Nazi riots in the Sudetenland and when the French and British people were sufficiently fed up with the whole business, he brought the pot to the front of the stove and to a quick boil.

Today Hitler is following exactly the same formula in Danzig. When Danzig first became an issue, Chamberlain issued belligerent statements in the House of Commons announcing that Britain would fight. Roosevelt also addressed peace messages to Hitler and Il Duce which put them on the spot.

But Hitler sparred for time, put the Danzig question on the back of the stove to simmer.

And today, the British are advising the Poles to compromise instead of going to war; exactly the same advice they gave the Czechs last October.

So you can mark it down as certain that Hitler is sure to take Danzig. The exact date is the only thing which remains uncertain.

Finish Poland

When that time comes Hitler will also take the proposed corridor or roadway across the Polish Corridor to East Prussia, the significance of which is all-important. That 16-kilometer strip across the Polish Corridor means that whenever Hitler wants to, he can shut Poland off completely from Gdynia and the sea. This roadway would be almost equivalent to giving Canada a narrow strip of land from Connecticut through the Bronx across the Hudson to New Jersey, completely isolating the area around New York City from the Port of New York.

Once Hitler has taken Danzig and a road across the Polish Corridor, he has Poland at his mercy in about the same way he had Czechoslovakia at his mercy after swallowing the Sudetenland. Thus when he gets ready to take the rest of Poland, its conquest would be much easier—though not so easy as the final conquest of Czechoslovakia. The Poles are better fighters.

Nude Art

While the House of Representatives was allowing itself to be shocked by the booklet of nude artists' models, used by the WPA Federal Art Project, Isa Glenn, the authoress, accosted Congresswoman Caroline O'Day.

"Caroline," she said, "I hope you didn't pretend to be shocked by that book of nudes. You haven't forgotten, have you, how we both studied art in Paris at age sixteen, and painted girls in the nude? And they were really nude —without so much as an apron string!"

Chip's Christening

Friends are twitting Chip Robert, vivacious secretary of the Democratic National Committee, that he was not his usual self at the christening of his bady daughter.

The christening was one of the social events of the Washington spring season. St. Johns' Church, where the President worships, was packed with dignitaries. The proud father, who is also secretary of the Southeast Governors' Conference, was clad in cutaway and striped trousers. But he appeared nervous.

Doris Duke Cromwell, richest woman in America and one of the godmothers, was late. The assemblage waited ten minutes. Finally she arrived.

Just as she did so, a friend remarked to Chip: "Chippy, you're not yourself today. Here you were, with Supreme Court Justices and Cabinet members in this congregation all waiting for ten minutes. Yet you didn't make one speech for the Southeast Governors' Conference or try to raise a single dollar for the Democratic National Committee.

"Chip, you certainly are slipping."

Note—Glamorous Evie Robert, mother of the child, hesitated three months before she could decide on a name, finally chose Alice Berney, after a grandmother. Friends wanted her to name the baby "Franklina" because she was born on Roosevelt's birthday.

Capital Chaff

Chief Justice Hughes recently remained at a dinner given in his honor by Under Secretary of State Welles until after midnight. According to protocol he should have left at 10:30 so that the other guests could go home; for under the rules of Washington society no one can can leave a dinner party until the guest of honor leaves. But in this case Hughes was having too good a time . . . "Young Republican," a magazine published with Republican National Committee backing, is getting to be a breezy and readable document . . . A significant slander suit is being settled in Cumberland, Md., by which a radio station apoligizes to John L. Lewis and John T. Jones, local head of the United Mine Workers, because it permitted a statement to be broadcast accusing Lewis and Jones of being communists and of wanting to over-throw the government by force . . . When Leon Henderson was up for Senate confirmation as an SECommissioner, the opposition threatened to expose a speech he once made championing Loyalist Spain. So Henderson got out the speech, read it over, and sent copies to two Catholic senators, suggesting that they put it in the Congressional Record. He said that if he had to make the speech over again, he would not change a word. The speech predicted exactly what the Chamberlain appeasement policy has harvested today.

Wagner Labor Fight

Not all the savage battling over the Wagner Labor Act is centered in Washington.

The big headlines are made here, but actually the Capital is only one sector of a nationwide battlefront. The law is under hot fire in a score of States and two already have adopted statutes which materially amend it in effect.

Mastermind of the State drive is Dr. Glenn Frank, former president of Wisconsin University, now chairman of the Republican Program Committee. By astutely trading on AFL complaints against the National Labor Board, and by unifying business and farm elements behind him, Frank has been able to chalk up some notable successes.

The Wisconsin and Minnesota legislatures have enacted restrictive measures, and Michigan is about to follow suit. It is significant that the Michigan bill is identical word-for-word with the Wisconsin law and varies only slightly from the Minnesota statute.

Another interesting sidelight is the apparent close alliance between Senator Burke, of Nebraska, Democrat, and Glenn Frank, Republican.

Burke was addressing a group of Milwaukee business men while Glenn Frank's bill was under consideration in the legislature, and said, "When I read about your labor bill in the paper this morning, I almost thought I was reading my own amendments to the Wagner Act."

Emilie feels a little grumpy and turns her back on her Quintuplet sisters, but Marie, Yvonne, Cecile and Annette start playing London Bridge. When Emilie hears their jolly song, she'll feel happy and will join them.

By Olive Roberts Barton

Some days are all mixed up. That is the way it is sometimes. Maybe you have had a little scolding and feel all grumpy inside. Or you can't think of anything to do, because you are tired of your toys. Mother says she is busy and not to bother her. You don't know whether to cry, or slam things around or tease the kitten.

Well, then, it is a fine idea to sing and sing and sing. If you can get other children to sing with you that is better still.

Maybe you know "London Bridge Is Falling Down." It does not matter about the words. If you don't know any words, just sing a tune. If you don't know a tune, make one up.

It makes everybody happy to sing and to hear other people sing.

Another way is to get some friends and play a game. But smile, too. It is so very catching, a smile is. Singing and smiling chase away our troubles — especially when we have "the grumps."

● SERIAL STORY

BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Cleverly disguising themselves, Hope and Sherry reach the Barro ranch and rescue Betty. Too late, the Barro cook realizes Betty is gone. No one knows where.

CHAPTER XXIV

WHEN Luis Barro learned that Betty Mary had escaped from his ranch stronghold, he cursed in a manner that could have been called classic. One reason was uppermost in his mind: she knew that he was a smuggler, and probably knew most of his plans for bringing over the 100 or more aliens Sunday night.

Naturally, Barro turned on his help to vent his anger, his head cook, all of his servants, and his guards. These latter he especially frightened, for on them rested the burden of keeping all prisoners. He threatened them with severe punishment and they knew Barro's were seldom idle threats. But none of them, the guards, servants, cook, alien customers, could even suggest how the young American senorita had gotten away. She had been at the rancho just before noon they said. She had not run past the guards. She had not hidden, for the premises had twice been thoroughly searched. She had just vanished in broad daylight.

In the end, Barro cooled down and took the affair more philosophically.

"Is no matter," he said to his aides. "What if she does know our plans? What is one spy, now? Are we not strong? The gringo federales have bluffed and been very lucky. We shall have more than 100 men armed, no es verdad?"

"Seguro si, Don Luis," one of them nodded.

"But that girl—maybe yet she can be found! I had promised her she would travel with me! If she has slipped back to El Paso—I have the idea to get her again for my guest. We shall see if people can make fool of Luis Barro!"

* * *

HE might have conducted a search or pursuit of Betty Mary on an intensified scale, if the press of business affairs had not interfered. Aliens of several nationalities were now at his ranch, waiting shipment to the United States. They had paid high prices, some as much as $1000 each, American coin. He realized that he had to deliver the services he promised or they would not only expose him to Mexican authorities, they doubtless would slit his own throat too. Moreover, he held a definite pride in his efficiency and bravado; especially now was he eager to put over a grand coup on the United States Border Patrol.

Normally he would have taken a half dozen or even two dozen aliens in cars to some point near the border, then walked them over at night. But this time it was not feasible to move 100 people in cars at once, without exciting suspicion. Nor could he move them a few at a time down state to the New Channell crossing where he expected to ford the Rio Grande, because there was the problem of feeding them even through their last night meal in Mexico.

He would, therefore, transport them on horses. He had even bought a herd of horses for just that purpose, decrepit stock at an average of $10 per head. Thus mounted, his armed aliens could wade right across the shallow Rio, constituting in reality a troop of cavalry too big for any Border Patrol force within the whole district. If the aliens couldn't slip through unseen, they could easily fight their way through, he felt. This thought gave him added daring.

His only concession to the fact that Betty Mary knew his plans, was to change the date of the crossing. Arbitrarily he advanced it from Sunday to Saturday night.

"Is wise arrangement, eh Panchito?" he demanded of a young cutthroat lieutenant in his force. "Luis Barro is clever man, no es verdad?" He chuckled in high self-satisfaction.

* * *

TO crouch on her hands and knees under a mass of corrugated pasteboard boxes, burlap sacks, fruit and vegetable peelings, and sweepings from a large kitchen floor, constituted a distinctly novel experience for dainty Miss Betty Mary Jordan of Washington, D. C.

The burro cart in which she rode, furthermore, had never known springs. Her knees soon were aching, her hands were almost raw. One leg was half asleep and tingling from strain.

An hour passed. Two hours. Three.

She could hardly bear it at first. At the end of perhaps two hours she thought she should surely die. But she scarcely dared make a noise or move. Then, suddenly, the "Mexican woodcutter" called his burros to a halt. He spoke through the trash to his passenger underneath.

"Are you all right?" Sheridan Starr demanded, in low but firm tone. "We have come far away. I am quite sure nobody is following, or even in sight. We are in a group of mesquite trees and other scrubby growth."

"I am exhausted," Betty Mary answered. "May I come out now?"

"No! No, Betty Mary. Not until after nightfall. I shall unhitch the burros and pretend to cut more wood. I must keep up the act. No telling who's likely to happen along, or watch us from a distance. In desperation Hope and I disguised ourselves, and bought the cart and truck from Mexicans. We had to find you!"

"All right, Sheridan. I am grateful to you. I'll do just as you say."

"I'll unload some of the upper boxes, stirring around in the wagon. While I do that, shift your position to lie down, getting as comfortable as you can. But do not move the trash unless I am apparently moving it."

When that was accomplished she felt blessed relief. The cramped position had been well nigh unbearable. Now she could relax. There were enough cracks to give her sufficient fresh air.

"All right now?" he queried again.

"Yes, thank you. Thank you a million times, Sheridan."

"That's all right, Betty Mary. I was just about crazy, before we found you. Hope and I both. We finally got your signal."

"Sherry?"

"Yes?"

"Were you—Sherry, were you really concerned for me, yourself?"

"Oh my God, Betty Mary!" It was almost a prayer, the way Sherry answered her, in low tone.

"Thank you, Sheridan. Again, I am honored."

"Betty Mary, I—we—Hope and I—well listen, there's no use dodging about it. We're both just about crazy over you!"

Betty didn't reply to that for a long moment.

"Are you saying that you love me, Sherry?" she finally murmured. Then it was Sherry's turn to hesitate.

"I can't take unfair advantage. Not here. If Hope were here, we —I can't say anything more yet. When we get you safely back home, then Hope and I—"

"Sheridan Starr, you are an extraordinary gentleman!"

"Thanks, but—"

"You do not know that Hope proposed to me, made love to me, after the little episode in San Felipe Canyon."

"No!"

"Yes. He—he didn't mince matters. But he was very earnest, Sherry."

"Hope is—Hope's a square guy! We're friends!"

"To be sure! He is one of the finest, most lovable characters I have ever known!" declared Betty Mary.

Sherry picked up his axe. He had to maintain his act as a woodcutter until after dark at least.

But, thought he, whatever did she mean by that last statement?

Wheat Prices In A Decline

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP)—Wheat prices were depressed today by selling based largely on reports of scattered rains over the grain belt and a forecast of continued showery conditions in Kansas and Nebraska.

Although the market advanced at times to slightly above the previous close, selling dominated trading Independent strength in rye, which rose almost 2 cents to a new high for the season, was attributed to reports of moisture shortage in much of the main producing area and fear of frost and grasshopper damage.

Wheat closed unchanged to ½ cent lower compared with yesterday's finish, May 78⅝c, July and September 73½c to 73⅝c; corn ⅛ cent off to ¼ cent up, July 51¾c to 51⅞c, September 52⅜c; oats ¼ to ⅜ cent lower; rye ⅝ to 1 cent higher.

Lethargy In Stock Market

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP)—The stock market today resembled nothing so much as a backward-minded tortoise.

The list shifted slightly into reverse at the start, extented declines later to a point or so for leaders then, after a moderate recovery, came virtually to a standstill. While there was a handful of gainers at the close, frequently slumbering, transfers for the five hours were less than 350,000 shares, another one of the low turnovers in nearly a year.

Conn Battles Krieger Tonight

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—Fight fans are expecting a genuine, old-fashioned brannigan when Billy Conn of Pittsburgh and Solly Krieger of Brooklyn tie up in a 12-rounder tonight in Madison Square Garden. Chances are they won't be disappointed.

Solly, recognized by the National Boxing Association as middle-weight champion, has promised to knock his young and handsome opponent cold. Conn, the finest light-heavyweight prospect to come along in many a day, is equally confident of pinning the tough Krieger's battered ears back.

Conn, who agreed to enter the ring at not over 172 pounds, is a pronounced favorite in the betting, largely the result of his two sizzling victories over Fred Apostoli in the Garden last winter. Krieger, though the lighter man, is more rugged than Conn and a fiercer puncher.

This will be their third meeting. Krieger won the first and had Conn on the floor. The Pittsburgh kid came back to grab the second, just after Krieger had knocked out Al Hostak for the N. B. A. title.

This should be quite a scramble, maybe as blood-thirsty as Conn's last argument with Apostoli when they lost their heads and slugged like longshoremen.

• The Sport Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, May 12—(AP)—The longest hitters of baseball and golf—Babe Ruth and Jimmy Thomson—are touring the Long Island courses together these days.....doctors have told Joe DiMaggio he can start hitting a few tomorrow.....Joe Louis is due today or tomorrow to sign formally for the Galento joust.....Al Watrous of Detroit, tuning up for the national open, was under par on four of his last five rounds.... Pittsburgh is sending a special train-load of rooters to tonight's Billy Conn-Solly Krieger fight in the Garden.

News of Jimmy Slattery's comeback brought only groans from his home town friends in Buffalo.... Miami's $10,000 open will be played earlier this year so the visiting British Ryder cup players will have a chance to shoot for the yams.....the unofficial baseball traders again have Lew Riggs headed for the Polo grounds to replace Mel Ott, who is messing up too many grounders around third.

Ladislav Hecht, the Czecho-Slovakian Davis cup star who arrived here the day Hitler took over, will play the summer circuit as a free lance..... his former doubles partner, Roderich Menzel, will campaign for the Nazis..... New York scribes say the Pirates are the best team to show at the Polo grounds this season. They played smart, heads-up baseball against the giants.... just in case the Red Sox are interested, Lou Finney, the new addition from the Athletics, is pretty handy with his mitts if anybody feels like getting fresh.

Mickey Cochrane's baseball book was ghosted by Charlie Moran, former Newark baseball writer..... in three games with the Phils, the Reds drew 22,589 fans, or 457 more than saw all their games in Philly last year.....Paul Dean may be heading for a real comeback. The other day the Cards complained he was so fast in batting practice they couldn't get their bats off their shoulders.

Cardinals Return Home Next Tuesday

Open 2 Weeks Stay With Giants; Cubs-Phillies Also There

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 12.—Concluding their first extended road trip of the season, Manager Ray Blades' Red Birds will return to Sportsman's Park next Tuesday to meet the New York Giants in the inaugural series of a homestand that will extend through Memorial Day.

The Terrymen will furnish the opposition at Sportsman's Park next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The Giants, after having started the season in rather wobbly fashion, gave the Red Birds plenty of trouble during their recent visit to New York, and Manager Blades is priming his charges to subdue the invaders.

The New York invasion will bring to Sportsman's Park for the first time in a Giant uniform, Shortstop Bill Jurges, Outfielder Frank Demaree and Catcher Ken O'Dea, the three players who figured in the big Cub-Giant swap of last winter.

Manager Leo Durocher will pay his first visit to St. Louis as a big league pilot, following the Giants. He will bring his Dodgers here for a two-game series. Another new manager will visit Sportsman's Park on Sunday, May 21, when Doc Prothro, arrives with the Phillies for a two-day stay. The Phillies have been one of the big surprise packages of the young National League season.

Casey Stengel's Bees who skyrocketed to the top of the league standings almost with the start of the season, follow the Phillies on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 24 and 25.

Then come the aggressive Cincinnati Reds, who open here Friday, May 26, and remain through May 28 for the first Sunday double-header of the season. The Reds play a Ladies' Day game Saturday, May 27, as the start of the Memorial Day week-end which will also include a Ladies' Day Monday, May 29, against the Pirates and a Memorial Day double-header, also with Pittsburgh on Tuesday, May 30, to conclude the home encampment of the Bladesmen.

Tickets for the games of the Red Bird homes and are available at the Cardinal Ticket Office, Arcade Building, St. Louis. The telephone is Long Distance 99.

Beauty Frequently Wins Best Jobs

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP)—Senator Ellender (D-La), who has been making an official study of such things, said today that when beauty and brains clash in competition over a government job, beauty most frequently wins.

The shapely turn of an ankle, the senator remarked, is often more effective in helping a girl get a good job than is the skillful twist of the wrist that makes her rival a supedlative stenographer.

Ellender began his inquiry several weeks ago after some government workers had complained that, efficient though they were, they remained in low-grade jobs while their prettier colleagues obtained promotions.

Ever since he has been trying to find out how congress could pass a law, or write a policy, that that would make merit alone the standard of employment and promotion.

His problem, he said, is complicated by the fact that most government officials are men.

European Conflict To Ring

Golden Glovers Meet Europe's Champions; Ellis, K. C., On Card

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP)—Amateur ring stars from five European nations battle eight Golden Glove boxers, survivors of a field of 25,000, in the eighth annual International Tournament tonight with the invaders determined to triumph for the first time since the series began in 1931.

The bouts will be fought in the Chicago stadium before a capacity crowd of 21,000, climaxing amateur boxing's largest tournament of the year.

The eight European boxers, from Italy, Finland, Sweden, Ireland and Esthonia, are winners of an European tournament in Dublin.

Since 1931, when the Chicago Golden Glovers conquered France, five to three, no European team has whipped the American squad.

The Golden Gloves squad, from six mid-west cities, was coached by Johnny Behr, who three years ago mentored the United States Olympic boxing team. Each bout will be three rounds of three minutes each.

The pairings for the International bouts:

112 pounds—Willie Moon, Chicago, vs. Olli Lehtinen, Finland.

118 pounds—Chester Ellis, Kansas City, vs. Guido Nardecchia, Italy.

126 pounds—Roy Lewis, Muncie, Ind., vs. Patrick Dowdall, Ireland.

Wins Over Co-eds in Glamour Contest

MANHATTAN, KAS., May 12—(AP)—Elmer (One-man Gang) Hackney, Kansas State's football, track and wrestling star, also wore today, at a slightly jaunty angle, the title of the college's "most Glamorous."

Hackney won in a walk from nine pretty co-eds in a contest sponsored by the college paper.

Last Saturday Hackney tossed the 16-pound shot 55 feet, 11 inches, a new American record. A plunging fullback, he is a mainstay on the Wildcat football team and also is a heavyweight wrestler.

Hotel Says Check Of Barrymore's Bounced

ST. LOUIS, May 12—(AP)—John Barrymore, veteran stage and screen actor, was charged with intent to defraud in a warrant issued Thursday by assistant prosecuting attorney, Maurice Mushlin, on the complaint of a local (Mayfair) hotel.

Mushlin said that he had withheld issuance of a "pickup" order for the actor at the request of the hotel manager, who said a check for $434.29 given by Barrymore had "bounced." It was drawn on the National City Bank of New York and covered expenses of Barrymore and his valet during a four-day stay here.

Mushlin indicated he would not press charges as he felt there was no fraud intended, though the formal warrant so charged.

Preakness Stake Draws Small Field

BALTIMORE, May 12—(AP)—Only five horses appeared ready today to oppose the rugged Johnstown's bid to cap his Kentucky Derby triumph with a victory in the historic Preakness Stakes at Pimlico Saturday.

When the names of the Preakness starters are dropped into the entry box tomorrow, these probably will be the three year olds designated to oppose William Woodward's colt in the $50,000 added Maryland classic:

Wheatley Stable's Gilded Knight.
Saratoga Stable's Volitant.
King Ranch's Ciencia.
Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Impound.

Gilded Knight and Johnstown will be coupled as an entry in the betting as both are trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons. Indications are they will be backed into odds as short as 2 to 5.

Six starters, at a fee of $500 each, would make the gross value of the Preakness $71,345—the season's richest purse for three year olds.

Not since 1918 has there been as few as six starters in the Preakness.

In the 49th running Saturday, Johnstown will be meeting only one horse that opposed him in the derby—Challedon, who trailed six lengths behind for second place.

The big bay son of Jamestown has not raced this season against the horse that promises to give him his greatest opposition—Gilded Knight, winner of the Chesapeake Stakes.

Nor has Johnstown met Ciencia, only filly eligible for the race. But in the Wood Memorial he beat both Impound and Volitant.

Youth Admits Fraud Attempt

KANSAS CITY, May 12.—(AP)—Federal agents prepared today to bring to Kansas City a youth they said sought to capitalize on the death of Edward L. Schneider, Ready Mixed Concrete Company official, by attempting to defraud Schneider's widow of $50 a week.

In New York, where the young man was booked yesterday as Gerald Klein, 21, federal officials said he wrote a letter to Mrs. Schneider saying he was an illegitimate son of her deceased husband and asking her to continue payment of $50 a week he said he had received from Schneider.

A complaint naming the youth as Gerald Klein and charging him with using the mails to promote fraud was filed here by Maurice M. Milligan, U. S. district attorney. Milligan said Klein would be brought here after a hearing before a U. S. commissioner in New York.

Federal agents said he made a complete confession saying he concocted the entire story on reading of Schneider's disappearance. Schneider's body was found in the Missouri river last week a few days after his abandoned motor car containing two suicide notes was found on a bridge. Schneider disappeared after testifying before a federal grand jury which indicted Boss Tom Pendergast who headed the concrete company.

In New York agents said Klein admitted "he bears absolutely no relationship to Edward L. Schneider or any member of the Schneider family" and "that the purported allowance is purely fictional on his part."

Scout Council Meeting

Following a dutch lunch, plans were discussed for coming events, at the Lake of the Ozarks council meeting of the Boy Scouts Thursday night in Kueck's Tavern.

Those attending were from Marshall, California, Jefferson City and Sedalia.

Reports German Fisherman Shot By Poles

BERLIN, May 12.—(AP)—DNB, official German news agency, reported today from Landsberg, close to Germany's fr[illegible] with Poland, that a German fisherman was shot and killed by Poles while crossing the river Obra in his boat. The Polish-Germany boundary is in the middle of the river.

All Accounted For From Boats

One Known Dead In Collision Of Fishing Schooners

YARMOUTH, N. S., May 12—(Canadian Press)—All 48 men aboard the New England fishing schooners Isabelle Parker and Edith C. Rose, which foundered early Wednesday after colliding in a dense fog, were believed accounted for at noon today.

One of the number was dead.

Thirty-three were picked up by coastal and fishing vessels and brought to Yarmouth after hours of rowing toward the coast in open dories. Three men were safe at Jonesport, Me., and 11 others were reported to be on their way to Yarmouth by bus after reaching the coast safely.

Frank Nickerson, 62, died aboard the schooner Isabelle Parker shortly after she collided in a dense fog with the Gloucester schooner Edith C. Rose. It was believed he died of heart attack.

His body was brought ashore in one of the dories which the fishermen rowed for hours until sighted by rescuers near the coast.

Among those who reached Yarmouth today were Captain Albert Hines of the Edith C. Rose and his son, Ted.

Telephone messages from the villages of Westport and Freeport, on the bay of Fundy, said the 27 had been landed there after three fishermen found them in open dories early today.

Whitney Derby, Wallace Titus and Herman Cann found the new group of survivors 20 miles west of Briar Island, at the end of Digby neck.

Details were not given in the brief messages reporting that the 27 had landed and were starting immediately on the 30-mile trip to Yarmouth.

Nine Near Exhaustion

The gasoline boat Amacitia previously had picked up nine fishermen near exhaustion after rowing 80 miles in dories.

The survivors were found as a fleet of rescue boats and planes searched the chill waters off the Nova Scotia coast. Both the Isabelle Parker, a Boston schooner, and the Edith C. Rose of Gloucester sank quickly when they collided in the dense fog.

Survivors said the Edith C. Rose sank in five minutes after the Isabelle Parker's nose crashed into her side and bounced back letting tons of water rush into the Gloucester schooner.

The Isabelle Parker sank in 25 minutes, giving the fishermen only time to scramble into poorly equipped dories as their schooner settled.

Frank Nickerson, 62, of Argyle Sound, N. S., was said by survivors to have been found dead aboard the Isabelle Parker shortly after the collision.

Twenty of the survivors who landed at Westport were put aboard the coastal steamer Keith Cann for Yarmouth. The seven who landed at Freeport were ferried to Meteghan where they are to board a bus for Yarmouth.

Eight of the Edith C. Rose's crew were among those saved.

Suit Is Filed For Property Division

A suit was filed in the circuit court today by Mrs. Lydia J. Holman Norris, against Henry H. Holman, Arthur Holman, Myrtle Thomas and Susan Salmon, in which the plaintiff asks that property left by her late husband, Walter F. Holman, be sold and that the court allow her what she alleges is her part.

Mrs. Norris was married to Mr. Holman March 5, 1919, and lived with him until his death March 3, 1935. She states in her petition that his will left her his personal property valued at approximately $600 and the home place, valued at about $2,500, "to have and to hold during her natural life." At her death, the will states, according to her petition, the home was left to Walter F. Holman's mother, brothers and sisters.

She alleges that she filed application for a widow's allowance of $400 a year and the first year's maintenance of $600 but they were not paid, and she asks for judgment for the first year's maintenance, and that the property be sold subject to the plaintiff's life estate.

H. T. Williams is attorney for the plaintiff.

Great Britain Adds Turkey To Alliance

Pledge Mutual Aid In Event Of War Of Aggression

LONDON, May 12.—(AP)—Great Britain odded strategic Turkey to her European security line up today as the two governments pledged aid to each other "in event of an act of aggression leading to war in the Mediterranean area."

The pledges were announced in the house of commons by Prime Minister Chamberlain pending conclusion of a "definite long term agreement of reciprocal character in the interest of their national security."

Asked whether an "act of aggression leading to war in the Mediterranean" meant an act of aggression anywhere or only in the Mediterranean, the prime minister sidestepped with the answer:

"It means an act of aggression which leads to war in the Mediterranean area."

Pending completion of the definite agreement, the prime minister said, "The British government and the Turkish government declare that in the event of an act of aggression leading to war in the Mediterranean area they would be prepared to cooperate effectively and lend each other all aid and assistance in their power."

Chamberlain made clear that the two countries had agreed to conclude the "definite longer term agreement," but indicated that its details had not been fully worked out.

Assures Mutual Aid

The announcement meant that Britain had forced another link in her chain of European security arrangements, the Turkish agreement supplementing British-French pledges of support already given to Poland, Rumania and Greece.

Of the Turkish agreement, Chamberlain said:

"This declaration is not directed against any country. It is designed to assure Great Britain and Turkey to mutual aid and assistance should the necessity arise.

"It was recognized by the two governments that certain matters require more precise definition, and an examination of them is proceeding."

"The two governments recognize that it is also necessary to establish security in the Balkans," the prime minister continued, "and they are consulting together with the object of achieving this purpose as speedily as possible.

"This arrangement does not preclude either government from making agreements with other countries in the general interest of the consolidation of peace."

Turkey is regarded in London as an invaluable ally in event of war largely because of her strategic position in the eastern Mediterranean.

Through the Dardanelles, she holds the key to the Black Sea. She also would be in position to come to Britain's aid, if necessary, in Palestine and Egypt.

Britain also is trying to obtain Soviet Russia's abhesion to the bloc.

Spiz Girls In Meeting Thursday

The Spiz Club held its last meeting Thursday afternoon with the president, Miss Ruth Franklin, presiding.

This year has accomplished many things, some as follows:

Sponsoring the coronation dance last fall; assisting in the sale of the Tiger Times subscriptions; selling tickets to the theatre, an activity of the student council; sponsoring a prize for the winner of the pep parade; giving away megaphones for cheering at the football games; participating in the various pep assemblies at the high school; giving the Parent-Teachers Association candy for their sale.

One of the activities this club sponsors, and one that is well known throughout the high schools in the state, is the serving of refreshments to the football and basketball boys of both the Sedalia high school and guest high school teams. The speech class has also been served during times of debate tournaments.

Miss Franklin was presented a gift by Miss Willouise Couhig in behalf of the Spiz girls.

Gillette For Repeal Of Law On Neutrality

Suggestion Made For A Munitions Control Board

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP) A proposal by Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) to repeal the neutrality law and substitute presidential restrictions on American shipping in wartime won strong bi-partisan support today in the senate foreign relations committee.

Gillette's resolution, drawn with the knowledge of the state department but not bearing its specific indorsement, was regarded in some quarters as a possible compromise in the confused neutrality situation.

There were authoritative reports the White House had been informed by Acting Chairman Bloom (D-NY) of the house foreign affairs committee that there appeared to be a majority sentiment in his group for outright repeal of all neutrality legislation.

Bloom, who conferred recently with the President, is expected to discuss pending neutrality legislation with him again soon.

There were indications, however, that some administration leaders in congress hope to postpone any debate on the nautrality question until European tension abates.

Gillette's proposal received immediate approval from Senators Connally (D-Tex) and Johnson (R-Calif). Senator George (D-Ga) indicated he also might support it, and Senator White (R-Me) said:

"It's worth serious consideration as a possible solution of the neutrality problem."

Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis), one of the leaders of the so-called mandatory neutrality bloc, voiced opposition.

Proposes Law Repeal

Gillette proposed to repeal all the present neutrality law except the sections restricting financial dealings with warring nations and setting up the munitions control board.

His resolution would give congress, as well as the President, the power to determine that a state of war exists. The President then would be empowered to fix combat zones into which American ships might go or Americans might travel only at their own risk.

In this the bill differs from a resolution by Chairman Pittman (D-Nev) of the senate foreign relations committee, which embodies the combat zone principle but provides penalties for those who would send ships into such zones.

Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash) said he thought that even if ship owners were notified they sent their vessels into such zones at their own risk, the sinking of an American ship might bring an emotional reaction which would lead this country into war.

Senator Borah (R-Idaho) declared he could see no reason why this country could not maintain its neutrality at all times "if we would keep out of European affairs and not be concerned with Europe's controversies."

"The trouble is," Borah said in discussing pending neutrality proposals, "that the government of the United States cannot seem to divorce itself from the desire to play power politics, to mix

Has Censor Date as 'Tropic Lady'

Beauteous Hedy Lamarr, whose performance in "Ecstacy" plunged her into censor trouble, again is heading for a date with the guardians of public morals. Reason: the sultry exoticism which she displays as "Lady of the Tropics."

Accused Ends A Hunger Strike

ENID, Okla., May 12.—(AP)—Roy Murphy broke his 22-day hunger strike with a cup of syrup and steeled himslef today for the ordeal of a murder trial he tried to evade by starvation.

Defense counsel James Mathers said he would contend the 40-year-old farmer shot in self defense the night Murphy's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Murphy, died in a blaze of pistol fire.

County Attorney Hugh Conway took up the tedious task of qualifying jurors for the death penalty. Only two were accepted yesterday and both sides agreed it might be tomorrow before 12 men were selected.

Glassy-eyed and gaunt, Murphy heard a jury yesterday declare him sane in a sanity hearing that preceded the trial.

District Judge J. W. Bird then swept aside Mathers' requests for more time to seek a second hearing and for a change of venue.

At the end of the afternoon, Murphy back in his cell, was given another dose of glucose in the veins and gulped down without protest a cup of syrup a jail attendant tendered him.

Harry and Roy, with a third brother, Bill Murphy, were partners in an oil boom town cafe. After a dispute, Harry agreed to buy out the others and Roy and Bill went to Harry's cabin to make a final settlement.

Bill Murphy, who contended he did not take part in the shooting is awaiting trial.

The Splendor of Motherhood

Every day from time immemorial continues to be Mother's Day since to the mother has falled the responsibility for the shaping of all generations. The care of the baby and its guidance in childhood and adolescense is hers to a large extent. The greatest thing in the world continues to be motherhood. It is therefore fitting that a day should be set aside to pay honor to motherhood.

The world today is undergoing a rebuilding. Governments are passing through the fires of reconstruction. Social fabrics are being torn down and rebuilt. Old traditions are being sent to the scrap heap but this one is firmly rooted.

Let us this Sunday be found in the place where Mother would have us be. Why not accept the invitation and come to chuch on Mother's Day?

Paul Evangelizes a Province. Acts 19:1-10; 20:17-21 for Sunday, May 14.

It is interesting to note the subdivision of the subject of evangelization. Evangelistic base —a city, verse 1; evangelistic beginning—a synagogue, verse 8; evangelistic outreach—a school, verse 9; evangelistic expansion—a province, verse 10; evangelistic agency—a church, verse 17-21; evangelistic furtherance — a letter, verses 19-22.

V. 1. "And it came to pass, that, while Apollos was a Corinth, Paul having passed through the upper coasts came to Epesus." Paul now on his third missionary journey revisited former established churches and having had a hearty welcome to come to the metropolis of Athens, he now settles down in this great city of opportunity. Apollos, a well-educated man but not well grounded on the work of the Spirit, paved the way for Paul.

V. 8. "And he went into the synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three months, disputing and persuading the things concerning the kingdom of God." His evangelistic effort began in the public place of worship. He did not mince words, he did not speak on popular subjects, he reasoned without fear of controversy.

V. 9. "But when divers were hardened, and believed not, but spake evil of that way before the multitude, he departed from them, and separated the disciples, disputing daily in the school of one Tyrannus. Here is the original church school with a simple organization, each disciple having been set apart for teaching, using the reasoning method. The preaching service and the teaching service combined form Christ's church.

V. 10. "And this continued by the space of two years; so that all they that dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks." Many came from a distance to the Ephesus school and Paul and his disciples made evangelistic tours all through this country.

V. 17. "And from Miletus he sent to Ephesus and called the elders of the church." This event was something later on his homeward journey; he was planning a farewell meeting.

V. 18. "And when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know from the first day that I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you in all seasons." Here Paul teaches the power of a good witness. One's testimony for Christ is sometimes better than a sermon.

V. 19. "Serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears, and temptations, which befell me by the lying in wait of the Jews." Paul was no dictator—he was too humble for that; he was very sympathetic, having a heart tender for tears. Mark how he had his temptations though a great preacher. While he had enemies, he did not name them for he wanted to win them.

V. 20. "And how I kept back nothing that was profitable unto you, but have shewed you, and have taught you publicly, and from house to house." Here is a biography in a few words. He had covered the ground in his preaching and teaching. He was both a preacher and pastor.

V. 21. "Testifying both to the Jews and also to the Greeks, repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ." Note the two essentials to salvation (a) that recognition of being a sinner that will make repentance a fact, (b) that exercise of faith in God that will cause a convert to grow a soul.

V. 19. "Now therefore, ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints and of the household of God." This is part of a letter written much later. The members of this church are told that their membership is in the church universal, members of the family of God.

Vs. 20, 21. "And are built upon the foundation of apostles and the prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone; in whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord." They had been well taught through the Old Testament and the teachers of the new dispensation of whom Christ was the greatest. Note verse 22 teaches the sacredness of personality.

Dinner Tonight By Brotherhood

The Brotherhood of the First Baptist church will meet for dinner and a very interesting program tonight at 7:00 o'clock. The guest speaker will be Dr. W. M. Taylor, pastor of the First Baptist church at Marshall, Mo.

Aubrey Case will make a report on the assignment of the members to the various committees. The work of the committees will be thoroughly explained.

The music will be under the direction of Carl Yessen. There will be plenty of good singing, special music, inspiration, and important business.

Dr. Taylor is the chairman of the inter-Associational Mission Advisory Committee for this district. He is a forceful speaker. We are assured therefore of a really worth while meeting. Every man in the church is invited to come and bring a friend.

WIT AND WISDOM

"On a recent Sunday, a guest was in the home of a friend whose little girl had just come in from her first Sunday school lesson. On seeing the enthusiasm of the child for the Sunday School, he asked. 'What did you do at Sunday School this morning?' 'We sang a song,' she said, 'in a big room and then we went into a small room where a lady talked.' 'Who was she?' asked the guest. 'I don't know her name,' she said, 'but she must be the mother of Jesus, for she talked about him all the time'."

The oldest Methodist church in this country has started a once-a-week luncheon club. It is the Old John St. Methodist Church, shadowed by the skyscrapers in the Wall street district of New York, that conducts the luncheon club for men in connection with its traditional noon-day services, says Bert L. Davis. Founded in 1768, when New York was British soil, the church has been holding midday meetings for more than eighty years. Some twenty years ago business women who liked to spend a half hour of the noon hour at a devotional service arranged to eat together in the church basement. This custom grew into organized form as a women's club — forerunner of Zonta, Quota, and other service clubs. The late Helen Gould Sheppard promoted this organization, whose Friday sessions are attended by 800 women, largely from the Wall Street district. In these few months the men's group, which meet on Tuesday noon, has reached an attendance of ninety.

Ten broadcasting stations in France broadcast religious news regularly. Such broadcasts include the mass and other services, concerts and religious lectures, sometimes in German as well as in French.

Dr. Rufus Jones, chairman, and Clarence Pickett, executive secretary of the American Friends Service Committee, were awarded the annual $10,000 Bok prize for outstanding service in Philadelphia. The two Quakers were cited for directing Friends' refugee and non-combatant aid throughout the world. Only twice during the past eighteen years has the award been given for religious activity.

The Supreme Evangelical Church Council of Germany, which is under the control of the Nazi government, has ordered the name "Jehovah" removed from any Protestant Churches in Germany which now use it. Names of Old Testament prophets are also under the ban. Something more "Aryan" must be adopted.

WHAT ARE THE EARLIEST RECORDED OBSERVANCES OF WHAT WE NOW CONSIDER MOTHERS' DAY? Although Mothers' Day is a comparatively recent addition to our calendar it cannot be regarded as a novelty. The earliest recorded formal mother worship is found in the tales of the ceremonies by which Rhea, the "great mother of the gods" was worshiped in Asia Minor. These ceremonies were introduced to Rome from Greece and they came to express something of the majesty of all motherhood, only to retrograde into the festival of the great nature goddess, Hilaria. With the growth of Christianity the festival was continued and the mother idea retained, but the honor was for the church.

From this idea grew the observance of Mothering Sunday. In those days, especially in England where the custom originated, boys and girls were bound out as apprentices and maid servants. One Sunday each spring was set aside for them to visit their mothers, taking them little presents. A youth making such a visit was said to be going a-mothering. Thus Mothering Sunday. There is no complete chain connecting these early celebrations with the modern festival, yet the present Mothers' Day has something in common with the old custom.

The Influence of a Mother

The empire builders of the centuries, the torchbearers of Christendom, the pathbreakers of civilization, all had their feeble beginnings at a mother's knee.

The mother of Moses did more for the entire world than all the kings of Egypt combined. Walter Scott's mother was a superior woman, well educated and a lover of poetry and paintings. Washington's mother was pious, pure, and true. Patrick Henry's mother was marked for her fluent conversational powers. The mother of the Wesleys was remarkable for her intelligence, piety, and executive ability, and was called the mother of Methodism. Bacon's mother was a woman of keen mind and deep piety. You need not read to me of the campaigns of Caesar, the wonderful exploits of Napoleon, the marvelous strategy of Foch, the conquest of Canaan by Joshua, for the silent history of a devout mother in her man-building career outstrips them all!

The Leadership of Women

Bishop James E. Freeman of Washington has said: "The pages of history record repeatedly the large and important place that woman has occupied in the concerns of states and nations. Not only has she played a most conspicuous role in shaping the judgments and opinions of those in authority, not only has she been a dominant force in giving poise and direction to kings and rulers, but now and again she has occupied a more conspicuous place in governing and controlling directly the aims and actions of great nations.

The Bible, perhaps more than any other book, recognizes the transcendent genius of woman, and records ever and again the large scale she fills in human affairs. The story of Deborah is brief, but exceedingly interesting. It is the story of a woman's triumphant faith. Reason plays its part in human affairs, but, as a French writer has said, "The heart hath reasons which the reason knows not of."

The modern Deborahs are to play their large and, we believe, noble part in this new age. May we not believe that their unfaltering faith, and unquestioned affection for all that is truest and best in human life, is to contribute to the richer, finer and nobler development of a truer and more real Christian civilization?"

Music Program Was Presented Wednesday

Pleasing Event At Washington School May 3

The splendid rendition of the program given at the Music Festival at the Washington School on Wednesday evening, was a fine compliment to the music director, Miss Marian Smith and her assistants in the training of the pupils. The outstanding performance of these children caused one to appreciate the child's opportunity for musical training as found in the schools of our city.

The two most colorful numbers were the song, "The Gay Balloons" with red balloons waving in time to the music and the little girls dressed in rainbow color crepe paper costumes, representing rainbow fairies.

Pupils of the second grade were very picturesque in Dutch costumes of blue and white. They performed well. First grade girls sang to their dollies and the boys wearing soldier hats marched in time to their song. A very clever number was the building of the staff by third grade pupils. Members of the fifth grade danced to the tune of "Turkey in the Straw." The girls were costumed in pink gingham dresses and sunbonnets and the boys wore overalls and straw hats.

The boys' chorus, the sixth and seventh grade choruses were especially outstanding in singing part songs. The 20 piece orchestra and the violin class showed splendid training and the beginner's band and rhythm bands were also very good.

The program was as follows:

Orchestra — Corona Overture —McCaughey.

First Grade Rhythm Band — Alp Maid's Dream—Labitzky.

Violin Class—Melody in F—Rubenstein.

Orchestra—Inauguration March —McCaughey.

Songs, First Grade — Rockaway Land—Birge; The Busy Cobbler—Ware; The Old Rag Dolly—Churchill-Grindell—Girls' Chorus.

Playing Soldiers — Churchill-Grindell—Boys' Chorus.

Songs, Second Grade — Land of the Wooden Shoes—Churchill-Grindell; Susy, Little Susy — Humperdinck; Hansel & Gretel —Humperdinck; Dutch Dance — Dodge — Three Boys, Three Girls.

Band Class.

Third Grade Rhythm Band—Daffodils Waltz—Franklin.

Violin Class — Barcarolle — Offenbach.

Songs, Third Grade — Springtime — Gedalge; Sweet and Low —Barnby.

Building the Staff, Third Grade.

Songs, Fourth Grade — Rainbow Fairies—Olds; Gay Balloons—Buccalossi; My Heart Ever Faithful—Bach; Frog Went a Courting—Folk Song; Lullaby—Brahms.

Songs, Fifth Grade .... Turkey in the Straw and Dance — Folk Song; Blue Danube—Strauss; Adios Mama—Terhune.

Songs, Sixth Grade—Serenade —Folk Song; Gondoliera — De Capua; The Gypsy's Song—Wilson; Sundown—Folk Song.

Boys' Chorus — Love's Old Sweet Song—Molloy.

Seventh Grade Chorus — Tambourine—Folk Song; 'Tis Spring —Wilson; Floating with the Tide —Wilson; Old Folks at Home—Foster.

The faculty wishes to express appreciation to all who assisted in any way, especially those who helped with the costumes. The directors for the program were: General director, Miss Marian Smith; rhythm band, Misses Grace Smith, Frances Garman, Elizabeth Hanley, and Blanche Harness; violin class, Miss Marian Smith; band, J. T. Alexander; costume supervisors, Mrs. Doras Herndon, Misses Frances Garman, Minnie Murphy, Grace Smith, Anna Greer, Jessie White, Rosemary McCloskey, Mabel Holstin, and Zanie Medlock. Mrs. J. W. Atkinson accompanied the seventh grade chorus.

Air Pilots' Day-Long Physical Test Points Way For Kindred Workers

In 1936 one of our leading air transport lines set up a medical department to make complete studies of health of all of their pilots.

The examination of a pilot requires an entire working day. Then two additional hours are required for rechecking all of the examinations.

Such studies should indicate the importance of a complete physical examination of everyone who is under any considerable stress or who bears any responsibility for the lives of others.

The test of a pilot includes not only all of the usual examinations as to the heart, lungs, eyes and ears, but also a number of other special tests which are necessary because of the character of the pilot's work.

These tests include basal metabolism tests to measure the rate of body chemistry; studies of the blood to determine the presence of anemia or the presence of various infectious diseases; X-ray studies of the heart, lungs and other parts of the body; complete tests of the hearing (using the audiometer); tests with glare to learn whether the pilot sees well at night; and self-registering records of the blood pressure, the action of the heart and other functions of the body.

When a pilot has completed this examination, he knows and his doctor knows that his physical condition is sufficient to be trusted.

* * *

Moreover, whenever pilots fly in foreign countries, special tests are made to determine whether any of the parasites that attack the intestines have invaded the body. The presence of such parasites may produce conditions seriously menacing the life and health of the pilot and thereby the life and health of the travelers.

The stewarts and the hostesses are also examined because they handle food. It is necessary to certify that they are free from communicable diseases because they travel from one state to another.

The radio operator, upon whom the pilots depend, are also studied particularly for the presence of chronic diseases like heart disease, diabetes or nephritis, since these conditions might produce a sudden unconsciousness if unrecognized.

They are also studied as to their hearing. Radio operators work for long hours with headphone sets. They must be able to hear voices in one ear and radio code in the other, and they must also be aware of a loudspeaker which is on the wall. Thus these radio operators must not only have acute hearing, but highly trained hearing.

* * *

There are various government standards now established for hearing and for vision which are of the utmost importance in relationship to the work in the field of aviation.

Some of the airlines have strict rules as to the hygiene of their pilots.

One line demands that pilots do not touch alcoholic liquors within 24 hours of departure time. Occasionally tests are made as to the amount of alcohol in the blood to make certain that the pilots are observing the rules.

• Raising a Family

By Olive Roberts Barton

Frank had moved before. He knew how hard it was to make friends in a new school. There wasn't much time left before vacation, so if he was to have any buddies during the summer, he'd better get busy at once.

Usually the first move come from the fellows themselves. Not very friendly ones, oh, no. An old crowd, tried and true to each other, could hardly be expected to hug a stranger to their bosoms. Frank, himself, once he had landed a place in a neighborhood gang, was as snooty as the best of them. Any new boy had to show him, so he expected the same thing now, himself.

The first few days were uneventful. He was allowed to pass either unnoticed or under a barrage of amused stares. Frank preferred more open hostility, because it led to a show down.

Words or even blows. That gave him a chance to project himself in a running jump and tackle the challenger. He was pretty good at duels. Not big, his strength and agility were deceiving and usually took his enemy off guard.

Politeness Is "Sissy"

In any case, his motto was, "Do it first, what they would — and will — do to you." Politeness and the milk of human kindness was decidedly out. That was girl stuff and he would have blushed with shame to win his laurels so.

But, alas, schools are different. This one puzzled Frank. The boys were not fighters. They dressed well and had money to spend. They merely continued to let him alone with that bored indifference that would have done a Mayfair club credit.

Frank waited for Arch. Would he say anything? Finally he did. He said, "What does your father do?"

Our Frank was a fast thinker. "He steals nosey boys and bites off their ears. What does yours do?"

"It's none of your business."

"That's good. My business is going to be something I can tell people, when I'm a man."

Arch was scarlet. He wanted to punch Frank's nose, but he remembered the sworn oath of his crowd that no outsider could get in, and that no one was to even talk to the kid who stared at them as cooly as they did at him. To fight would be rank heresy. Besides, he wanted first to know the strength of his foe.

Challenge — Accepted

He just said, "I'll fix you for that."

And Frank said, "Do it now."

In a split second two boys were pummeling each other on the floor.

Frank let Arch off easy. He strode away without a word. But Arch held his tongue. He had to decide whether it was easier to be friends with this quick wit or have an enemy who could rout him at two games, words or fists. He decided to be friends. The other boys finally gave in. Frank had scored.

• Stamp News

MAKING a last-minute surprise authorization, Postmaster General James A. Farley has announced issuance of a 30-cent airmail stamp to be used with the inauguration of trans-Atlantic airmail service "in the near future." Earlier, it was believed no such stamp would be issued at this time because adequate airmail values were already available for the first flights.

The special airmail stamp will conform in size and general design with the current six-cent airmail value of 1934 except for the denomination designation of 30 cents and the added inscription "Trans-Atlantic."

Further details as to color, date and place of first-day sale will be announced shortly by the Post Office Department.

* * *

For the benefit of stamp collectors desiring first-flight covers on the initial westbound flight when trans-Atlantic service is inaugurated, Pan American Airways company, 135 East 42nd street, New York City, will accept consignments of covers with remittances in money order or cash.

All such covers should be forwarded in time to reach New York by May 16.

Postmaster General James A. Farley has announced that charges for these covers handled by Pan American will run as follows:

Azores to Lisbon, 25 cents; Azores to Marseille, 30 cents; Azores to New York, 47 cents; Lisbon to Marseille, 30 cents; Lisbon to Azores, 25 cents; Lisbon to New York, 47 cents; Marseille to Lisbon, 23 cents; Marseille to Azores, 31 cents, and Marseille to New York, 47 cents.

Each cover should be plainly marked to indicate service desired. Cachets will be applied to all covers dispatched from the Azores, Lisbon and Marseille.

Covers to be dispatched from New York should be sent to the postmaster there at the 30-cent per half ounce U. S. rate.

Feared Eight Died In Blast And A Blaze

Elevators Swept By Destructive Fire In Chicago

CHICAGO, May 11—(AP)—An explosion and fire levelled a mammoth south side grain elevator today, in which firemen feared 8 or more men were killed. The flames then spread to four neighboring elevators an denveloped a quarter square mile in searing heat.

Fire Marshall Michael J. Corrigan said it was the largest fire in Chicago since the $8,000,000 conflagration at the stockyards May 19, 1934. Five city firemen and four other men, two seriously hurt, were taken to the hospitals.

Preliminary estimates placed the loss to grain and properties at well above $1,000,000.

Reports casualties might reach a score could not be confirmed because the heat kept firemen some 100 feet from the ruins of elevator "A" of the Rosenbaum Grain company, where the explosion originated.

W. H. Gassler, superintendent in charge of operations for the company, said eight men were believed to have been trapped in "A" elevator.

Some 30 or 40 men were believed to have reported for work this morning in "A" elevator, a sheet metal clad wood structure a block square and 150 feet high. It had a capacity of 1,250,000 bushels, and a company spokesman said 800,000 bushels of grain, valued at $200,000 was stored there. The elevator was valued at $200,000.

Blaze Spreads

Flames spread to "B" and "C" elevators of the Rosenbaum concern, then jumped a loading slip to two elevators of the Norris Grain company. The fireboat, Joseph Medill, poured water on them.

Across another slip, 75 feet wide, 8,000 gallons of alcohol were stored in a small warehouse of the Collins company.

Freight cars on sidings near the elevators caught fire; piers, a sand barge and dredging scow in the Calumet river smouldered; parked automobiles ignited, but a shift in the wind saved residences a block away where the blast broke windows.

Nearby another group of elevators of concrete construction was threatened by the heat. The group, at one hundred and second street and the Calumet river, constituted one of the largest storings of grain in the Chicago area. About 9,000,000 bushels of grain was stored in elevators in the district.

Fifteen miles away in the loop grain traders went up in the board of trade skyscraper to watch the smoke and speculated on the amount of grain destroyed.

New Ambassador For The Soviets

WASHINGTON, May 11—(AP)—Constantine Oumansky, who has been charge d'Affaires of the Soviet embassy, became today the capital's youngest ambassador from a major power. He will observe his 37th birthday anniversary Sunday.

Announcement of his appointment to succeed Alexander Troyanovsky as the Soviet envoy was made yesterday in Moscow.

Oumansky came here first in 1933 with Maxim Litvinoff to seek resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia. He was appointed counselor to the embassy in 1936.

The new ambassador speaks English fluently, sprinkling his conversation with American idioms. He also speaks French, German and Italian.

The Soviet government's designation of a new ambassador followed President Roosevelt's recent appoint of Laurence A. Steinhardt as American envoy to Moscow. The post in Moscow had been vacant since Ambassador Joseph E. Davies, now envoy to Belgium, left last June. Troyanovsky left here shortly thereafter.

Search On For Armed Convicts

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark., May 11.—(AP)—A posse of prison guards, state and county peace officers searched dense swamp lands in the vicinity of Arkansas City, southeast of here, today for two armed convicts who fled Summins prison farm late yesterday.

A prison automobile used in the get-away was found abandoned shortly after midnight. Prison headquarters here and state police headquarters in Little Rock reported nine hours later the posse was still hunting through the river bottoms. The convicts, reported armed with a rifle and pistol each, were described as 'mean and desperate."

The escapes were trusty William Heard, 31, sentenced to 15 years on robbery and assault charges, and William Landers, 37, given 21 years for robbery.

Big Pay Goes To Skilled Workers

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—The amusement section of that far-flung fair on Flushing meadows is proving a veritable gold mine to skilled workmen.

Amid the unsuccessful rush to complete concessions by the fair's opening day April 30, overtime pay has rocketed some individual weekly wages as high as $320. There are 60 major concessions in the area.

The total pay to electricians, carpenters, steelmen and laborers is running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Final figures probably will not be known for months, but in almost all instances construction costs are far over original estimates.

Some concessions have been taking their time in construction, thus escaping heavy extra payrolls,, but the area—cost of which runs into the millions—now is about 80 per cent complete and probably will be entirely finished within two weeks.

Unity For The Methodists Is Now Reality

Nine Hundred Delegates Carry Message Home

KANSAS CITY, May 11—(AP)—Nine hundred delegates represeting three previously separate branches of Methodism carried back to their churches today the message:

"The Methodist church is. Long live the Methodist church."

The words were spoken by Bishop John M. Moore, of Dallas, as the delegates voted approval formally and without dissent last night of the plan of union already recommended by the Methodist Episcopal church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant church. The combined church has nearly 8,000,000 members.

Two weeks of perfecting a plan of government for the new church was completed without encountering legal action threatened at the outset of the uniting conference by a group of south church laymen.

The group, known as the laymen's organization for preservation of the Southern Methodist church, asserted at Atlanta as the conference ended "its acts were illegal and the plan impossible of being carried out."

Spokesmen for the laymen's organization said court action would be instituted in South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi and Tennessee.

The legal action apparently was anticipated by the conference here. The formal declaration of union carried clauses stating the three formerly separate churches "do not and will not surrender" their names, and that the new

Don S. Lamm Is Moderator

Donald S. Lamm, Sedalia attorney, 1303 South Osage avenue, was named state moderator Wednesday of the Missouri Congregational Conference at the close of its annual convention in St. Louis.

Mr. Lamm, a member of the law firm of Lamm and Barnett, served as moderator for the Western district of the Congregational Conference last year. He is a director and vice-president of the Sedalia Bank and Trust Company and a director of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Lamm was unable to go to St. Louis for the conference, being kept here by business.

Miss Marion Fox of the First Congregational church, Kansas City, was elected vice-moderator. Other officers elected were: Dr. Charles C. Burger, Webster Groves, superintendent and registrar; Mrs. George W. Clinton, St. Louis, treasurer.

Dr. Thomas W. Nadal, president of Drury College, Springfield, Mo., urged the strongest co-operation between the church and college in interpretation of religion for modern use.

"The test of a Christian college," he said, "is found mainly in the men and women of the faculty. Do they lead Christian lives? A Christian man in the department of chemistry may teach more Christianity than a pagan who is teaching the bible."

Garrett Resigns as C. of C. Counsel

KANSAS CITY, May 11.—(AP) City Councilman Ruby Garrett, Democrat, submitted his resignation today as general counsel of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce. It will be presented to Chamber directors tomorrow.

Threats of resignation from the civic organization by members holding there has been too much city hall domination of the Chamber have been heard. The position carried a monthly fee of $275.

"II found I was giving too much time to the job," Garrett said. "I am resigning so I can devote more time to my law practice."

Smaller Wheat Crop In State This Year

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 11—(AP)—A winter wheat crop of 22, 342,000 bushels, 29 per cent below last April's estimate, is predicted by Alfred C. Brittain, federal agricultural statistician.

Wheat condition was above normal May 1, Brittain said, the smaller crop resulting from a smaller planted acreage.

Vital Facts On Conservation

Kiwanians Hear Them In Talk By J. T. Montgomery

Vital facts of the purposes of conservation as told by J. T. Montgomery, president of the Missouri Conservation Federation before the Sedalia Kiwanians, and their guests, Thursday noon at the Hotel Bothwell, disillusioned many that the objectives of the Conservation Commission was solely for the preservation of wild life.

Mr. Montgomery dealt with "Wild Life" as it was affected by need of re-forestation and the replanting of trees and grasslands. Two hundred million acres of timber he said have been cut in the United States during the past 75 years. In the same period three hundred million acres of grassland have been destroyed. This acreage, he says, must be re-forested and re-planted if we are to have control of land erosion and flood control to again provide clear and abundant streams of water in which fish may live and grow.

Mr. Montgomery said that an apple tree with a 40 foot crown would absorb 20 tons of water annually, while grasslands would absorb two or more times as much moisture. Other examples of the meaning of conservation as it applied to the preservation of wild life which depended upon the production of the lands were given, such as, the fact that today the average water level of the earth water was near the surface of the ground, when springs flowed abundantly helping to provide the three elements necessary for the preservation of wild life — cover, food and water.

Flag Drill Given

Preceding the address 32 members of the Jefferson schcol troop of Brownies, under the leadership of Mrs. Louis Allee and Miss Rowena Patterson, Girl Scout leaders, presented a flag drill and short program of Brownie songs. Miss Catherine Garman, principal of the school, was also present.

G. A. Brock, of Chicago, was presented as the guest of Kiwanian L. W. Satorious.

President Montgomery complimented the club members on their commendable number of 40 who attended the installation dinner of the Clinton Kiwanis club in Clinton, Mo., on Tuesday evening. The Sedalia club co-sponsored the new club with the Boonville Kiwanis club.

Petitions for the new armory bond issue were circulated at the meeting and were signed by all members present.

In the absence of Frank Keyser, program chairman of the month, Henry Salveter, introduced the speaker. Kiwanian William Courtney introduced the Brownie feature of the program.

Asks Ousting Of Williams And Graves

McKittrick Charges Officials Failed To Enforce Laws

JEFFERSON CITY, May 11.—(AP)—W. W. Graves, Jackson county prosecutor, harried by criminal indictments and official criticism for months, was threatened with loss of his office Wednesday in an ouster suit filed by Attorney General Roy McKittrick.

McKittrick also asked the supreme court to oust the Jackson county sheriff, James L. Williams, who conducted the court-directed gambling raids which spearheaded the current Kansas City shakeup.

In suits describing the two officials as "willfully, knowingly and corruptly" neglecting and refusing to administer their posts, the attorney general recited broad charges of a breakdown of law enforcement in Kansas City and Jackson county. Seven specific counts were listed in the Graves suit and six in the Williams action.

Conferences With Stark

Filing of the formal charges between McKittrick and Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, who bitterly assailed Graves several months ago and declared the prosecutor's conduct of his office "justified his immediate removal."

The Graves ouster petition alleged the following specific instances of neglect and misfeasance:

"Respondent (Graves) has failed personally to devote his time to the duties of his said office and has x x x neglected and refused to institute and conduct investigations of violations of the criminal laws in the state of Missouri in Jackson county x x x.

Loafing On Job

"x x x He has continuously and habitually absented himself from the office of prosecuting attorney for long periods of time" and "has x x x devoted a great part of his time x x x to the private practice of law.

"That the laws prohibiting gambling, bookmaking, lotteries, bawdy houses, brothels x x x have been openly and notoriously violated in all parts of said Jackson county" and that Graves had "personal knowledge" of such conditions.

The Williams action is similar to the Graves suit and charged "violations of criminal laws in Jackson county have become open, notorious and flagrant and well-known to respondent x x x and many of said violations x x x have been committed in the presence of and with the knowledge and consent of said respondent."

May Name Commissioner

Both Graves and Williams will continue in office until the ousters are ruled upon by the supreme court.

The only similar case ever brought in the state—McKittrick's attempt to oust Carl F. Wymore, Cole county prosecutor, on charges of neglecting his office—is nearly two years old now and still is pending in the supreme court.

If precedent is followed the supreme court will appoint a special commissioner to hear the evidence in the two cases. The commissioner will file his report with the court which must determine the law and possibly hear arguments before it hands down an opinion.

House Passes $6,500,000 Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, May 11.—(AP)—The 12th and last 1930-40 appropriation bill—a $6,500,000 omnibus measure—was passed by the house 111 to 4 and sent to the senate today.

The action placed every remaining important bit of legislation in the senate's hands except Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's Kansas City police bill, which is expected to be hurried to the upper branch when it comes up in the house next Tuesday under a special order of business.

Streets Were Flooded Due To Downpour

Barber Shop Hit By Lightning In Sudden Storm

Rain, during an electrical storm, fell in torrents for a few minutes Wednesday night between 8 and 9 o'clock, a total of .67 during the entire night.

Streets were flooded in some sections of the city and fast moving streams ran along the curbings in practically all streets. Driving cars was difficult because of the poor vision, and many persons stopped on the side of the streets and highways until the heaviest of the rain was over. Lightning flashed and thunder roared for a few minutes.

Lightning struck a barber shop near Sixteenth street and Grand avenue, operated by W. S. Jeffries. It hit two hair clippers, starting a fire that resulted in about $5 damage. The fire departments were called and responed, extinguishing the blaze with a pump bucket.

The departments were called to McLaughlin Brothers Furniture store at 8:44 o'clock, after the automatic alarm had been sounded. There was found to be no fire, the sounding alarm system going off by mistake.

A transformer affecting the lights in building on highway 50, west of the State Fair boulevard, was blown out and lightning burned a wall plug at the Sedalia Drug Co., extinguishing the lights.

The police station was in darkness for about an hour, caused by the blowing out of the fuse for its main line. Additional fuse trouble at several homes were reported, and repair crews were sent out by the City Light and Traction Company.

Coal Deadlock Over As Public Concerned

Announcement By Chief Of U S Conciliation

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—Dr. John R. Steelman, chief of the U. S. Conciliation Service, said late today that insofar as the public was concerned the deadlock in the soft coal industry "is over."

Dr. Steelman said "evidence has been presented to indicate that a large percentage of the operators already have a 'union shop' in practice." This point was one of the chief stumbling blocks to a contract agreement.

The "closed shop" means all employes must be union members. The "union shop" permits non-union employes to remain so if they desire at the time a union shop becomes effective, but requires new employes to join the union, usually after a specified length of employment.

John L. Lewis, CIO head and president of the United Mine Workers of America has directed union leaders in the producing areas to make individual agreements where possible outside the Appalachian area.

Dr. Steelman's statement follows:

"So far as the public is concerned, the deadlock is over. It appeared impossible, due to the unit rule of voting, for the United Mine Workers and the Appalachian conference, a bargaining unit, to come to an agreement on the union shop issue.

"When it became absolutely necessary that steps be made to reopen the mines, we requested that such operators and the union as were in agreement to sign contracts and start the mines immediately.

"Evidence has been presented to indicate that a large percentage of the operators have already a union shop in practise and both parties wish to keep such an arrangement. Different associations and individual operators have given assurance of their desire to have a contract based upon the miners' proposal of March 30.

"This proposal was that the old agreement be extended for a period of two years with the added proviso that the union shop, already in effect practically, be actually written into the contract.

"When Mr. Lewis replied that the union would accede to the government's suggestion and sign contracts immediately with the operators who had signified their desire to do so on the above basis, the Appalachian negotiating committee suggested that the union not sign with any districts or association or individual within the Appalachian area before 3 P. M. (E.S.T.) today.

"This suggestion was that each might have an opportunity of reconsidering or canvassing their group to ascertain if it was yet desired, under the circumstances, to reach an agreement covering the entire area.

"The government approved the extension, and Mr. Lewis agreed with the operators to await their reply this afternoon."

NEW YORK, May 11—(AP)—John L. Lewis today dispatched telegrams of instructions to union leaders in outlying districts in the soft coal mining region to sign new contracts with operators and when that is accomplished, to "arrange for forthwith operation of the mines."

About 126,000 miners employed in the so-called outlying districts who stopped work May 4 and 5 to back up the 320,000 striking members of the Appalachian area whose representatives are deadlocked with the operators' committee in contract negotiations at the Hotel Biltmore.

Lewis' telegram emphasized two sentences must be added to the wording of the old contracts when the new agreements are drawn. These sentences make the U. M. W. the exclusive bargaining agency for the employes and establish a union shop.

Reopening of the mines in the 14 districts outside the Appalachian area would stave off a threatened crisis resulting from a fuel shortage. Mines in the Appalachian districts, which produce most of the nation's soft coal, have been closed since April 1.

Lewis was quoted by Ellis Searles, a union officer, as saying the UMW would seek individual contracts in the Appalachian area as well as in the outlying districts if the joint operators' committee refuses to accept the union's terms at a meeting this afternoon.

"John L. Lewis is confident that a large majority of the operators are ready to deal with us individually," Searles said.

"We've got them licked. They will have to accept the union shop now."

Distribute Petitions For City Building

At a meeting of the Sedalia night, petitions to the Citl Council Round Table Council Wednesday for a new civic building and armory were distributed among those present. The Round Table Council members will attempt to have 3,500 city voters sign these petitions, the number required by the City Council before they will call a special bond election on the proposed building.

If the necessary signatures are obtained, plans and specifications of the building will be drawn up and sent to PWA and WPA headquarters, to get government aid in the project if possible. The city's debt on the proposed building is not to exceed $60,000, according to the petitions.

Charles M. Van Dyne is chairman of the Round Table Council committee in charge of the civic building and armory. At the meeting last night, various supporters of the new building gave arguments in its favor.

Varied Uses

The building, they said, could be used for convention meetings, banquets, dances and general assemblies. The example of Excelsior Springs, which last year had 60 conventions with a revenue of over two million dollars, was cited as showing the profitable side of a civic building.

Under the proposed plan of the Round Table Council, the building would be directed by a board of trustees, composed of prominent local citizens, who would act as a clearing house in order to prevent duplication on dates of scheduled events.

Quarters for two National Guard units, with drill floor and storage space for trucks, would also be provided by the building, its supporters say.

Would Raise Taxes

The Round Table Council estimates a $60,000 bond issue would raise taxes between three cents and four cents per $100 valuation.

The petition, drawn up by the council, reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned voters of Sedalia, Mo., respectfully petition and request you to call and order an election to be held for the purpose of testing the sense of the voters upon a proposition to incur debt not to exceed $60,000 (and evidence same by bonds) for the purpose of acquiring, building and erecting a combination civic building and armory and the land necessary therefor in the city of Sedalia."

Farm Lands To Be Photographed

WASHINGTON. May 11.—(AP)—The Agricultural Adjustment Administration reported today it has awarded contracts for aerial photographs of 215,192 square miles of farm land in 16 north central and western states.

The photographs, to be taken from airplanes at an altitude of about 15,000 feet, will cost $476,362.

The AAA uses the photographs to check farmer compliance with crop control programs. This system has supplanted field surveying. Only farmers who comply with crop programs are eligible for full government benefit payments, which this year will exceed $760.000,000.

Bids also will be opened May 12 for 68,524 square miles of photography in southern states. Photographs to be taken this year will give the AAA aerial pictures of more than 1,500,,000 square miles of farm land, officials said.

Bids to be opened tomorrow include: Arkansas 12,371.

The contracts let include:

Missouri—17.041 square miles to Park Aerial Surveys, Inc., Louisville,, Ky., $33,229.

U. S. Sends A General To Brazil

The soldier who is to be chief of staff of the United States Army is on the high seas, on his way to Brazil.

This is a move in a game that is somewhat new to the United States. This country has not been as well accustomed to military missions to foreign lands as have the countries of Europe. But it is a game we can play if we must, and which we feel confident we can play well.

The circumstances leading up to Gen. George C. Marshall's trip to Rio de Janeiro are interesting.

Several weeks ago, as part of his campaign to increase German prestige in South America, and to get a sympathetic hearing for German aims among influential Latin-Americans, Chancellor Hitler of Germany invited to Germany the Brazilian chief of staff, Gen. Pedro Aurelio de Goes Monteiro.

There he was to have been much feted, given the privilege of "leading" a division of German troops. Every effort was to have been made to produce in him an attitude which would in the future be sympathetic with the Germany of Adolf Hitler. They do those things very well in Germany.

State department officials and influential democratic leaders in Brazil were worried, for Nazi influence is already strong in Brazil, and it is a constant fight to keep the course of the ship of state steered toward a future free democracy rather than allowing it to lapse back into totalitarian influence. What to do?

The present plan was adopted. The visit of General Marshall to Brazil was arranged, and soon public announcement was made that General Monteiro would not go to Germany at present. He would stay in Brazil to help entertain the distinguished American guest. Later in the summer it is planned to invite General Monterio here to return General Marshall's visit.

Thus the first trick in this game goes to the United States. Thus we must be ready to top or trump any card played in a game which, if not of our choosing, has nevertheless been chosen.

Americans differ somewhat about just what course we should pursue in relation to Europe. They differ scarcely at all in regard to South America.

The Western Hemsiphere, equally for reasons of idealism and of self-interest, must be kept free to develop its own institutions and its own future without undue pressure, direct or indirect, from Europe or Asia. On that practically all Americans, North and South, agree.

When any chips drop on the table in the South American game, it is up to the United States to see, raise, or call at all times, and to hold a hand that will be "good" at any stage of the game.

Michigan has a pancake queen. Now, there's one beauty a fellow can get really serious about.

American ladies are taking to Polynesian fashions. Aha, they're catching on to the reason why hubby's always talking about those girls in the travelogues.

WPA, in its theatrical project, is said to have produced a series of Broadway flops. So that's where those starving playwrights have been going.

David Rockefeller, a University of Chicago student, found no money in his pocket when he was asked to pay for a tennis game. Imagine a Rockefeller without a dime!

Good Advice Repeated

Americans of Czech and Slovak blood have been officially advised by their leaders that the best service they can do their homeland is to pitch in and do their full share as loyal American citizens in making democracy succeed here.

Americans of German blood in Milwaukee and other cities have had the good fortune of leadership which offered a positive program of genuinely American activities instead of the tinpot political posturings offered by the Nasti Bund.

Now to Americans of Italian blood comes the same call. Generoso Pope, the country's most prominent Italian-language editor, says, "We are and we remain most loyal citizens of this great hospitable land . . . we should strive to live in the best relations with the rest of the people of the United States, and labor together with them to create, to preserve, and to solidify friendship with all the nations of the old world."

Wise words from a man to whom America has been good. Wise, quiet words that should carry more weight than shrill cries of hatred and passion.

What People Want

Most people are not very ambitious. They don't want very much.

A magazine cover brought it to mind. It showed a spotty cluster of little people before a small-town hardware store. They were all intent on onion sets and screen paint, lawn mowers and cabbage plants. You could feel the spring sunshine, smell the chicken feed and fresh earth.

And that is what people want. A little place to live in in peace and putter in the garden.

They don't want parades of 40,000 soldiers or mass meetings of a million ant-people to show the world some monomanaic's idea of what he thinks ought to be in their minds.

Every time we see, at this time of year, one of those pictures from Europe showing a vast sea of people gathered together at somebody's orders, we wonder how many of them are really thinking about onion sets.

Cleveland is talking aboul setting up a court for dogs. Many of the cases will be snaps, of course.

While war worry increases, Milwaukeeans are singing: "The Yanks are coming." The city plays host to the dental convention this summer.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss plans for the care of children examined at the Crippled Children's clinic last April 14. Plans include treatment at the University of Missouri hospital in Columbia and the Mercy hospital in Kansas City, and vocational rehabilitation programs.

Of the 107 children at the clinic 97 were examined by Dr. W. J. Stewart, of the University hospital, and follow-up work based on these examinations is now going forward, Mrs. J. C. Connor, local secretary of the society has reported.

Miss Nadine Anderson, field nurse for the state Crippled Children's Service, whose offices are in Sedalia, Miss Bettye Field, city school nurse and Miss Elizabeth Guy, Pettis county health nurse were in charge of the pre-clinic surveys and are continuing with the follow-up developments.

Arrange Treatment

Treatment for children under 15 years of age, who can be benefitted by care in hospitals or clinics and whose parents are unable to pay, is arranged for by the state Crippled Children's Service.

Those over that age are cared for through the office of Miss Alberta Chase, of St. Louis, executive secretary of the Missouri Society for Crippled Children.

Funds for this work are provided by the local crippled children's society and the county court as well as the Missouri society, which obtains funds from private sources and contributions. Treatment for the county crippled children over 15 years old is made principally in St. Louis hospitals.

Miss Chase was at the meeting and expressed her appreciation of the follow-up work being done on the Pettis county cases.

High Honors To R. P. Brandt And Wallace Crossley

Raymond P. Brandt, a former Sedalian, who, among others from this city achieved distinction in journalism, or other endeavors in business and professional life, is to receive a high honor Thursday, May 11, in the awarding of a medal to him for outstanding service to journalism at the thirtieth annual journalism week celebration at Columbia.

Mr. Brandt, son of Jacob Brandt a former Sedalia grocer, now at Wilburton, Okla., has a record that few have attained. Attending Sedalia grade schools he was studious and advanced steadily, later graduating from the Sedalia high school. Desiring higher education he attended the University of Missouri where through diligence and study he received honors and was awarded a Rhodes scholarship.

His advancement to head of the Washington bureau of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, where he had been a correspondent for several years, came through his ability to properly construe and handle news of the national capital.

Stover Women Get Essay Award

The following essay won a $10 award from the Country Gentleman League of Philadelphia, Pa. Two of the club's prominent members, Mrs. Lee T. Sims and Mrs. Forest Gerhart, were co-authors.

"The aim of the Stover Home Economic club has ever been for community betterment. It has fostered better home-making methods, sponsored the Boy Scouts and 4-H clubs, provided community good times, such as July Fourth celebrations and Hallowe'en festivals. It has secured better school equipment, held health clinics and inoculations, acquired a public library and aided the needy. But this last year it has completed a project that we feel surpasses all other efforts at community build-up.

"Since our town had no community center, we conceived the idea of converting the town dumping ground into a park, thereby furnishing a playground for the children, a community center for the town people and an inviting spot for tourists to stop for lunch and rest.

"We bought the site, ten lots lying along the highway and a block and a half from the business district for $200. On it was a barn, a shed and a healthy growth of brush and brambles, trash piles and rocks. After cleaning and clearing, tearing down old fences and shed, we found we had a fine rolling plot of ground and nine splendid shade trees. We built two outdoor ovens, tables, seats and sanitary toilet; planted trees, shrubs and perennials and sowed grass and clover seed.

"We now had a park, indeed. Its cool shade and grassy slope was restful and inviting. Tourists soon began stopping in. Schools and churches came here for their picnics and family groups held basket dinner here.

"We next decided to convert the old barn into a shelter house. NYA help was enlisted. The barn was moved to a favorable spot, placed on a good foundation, a cement floor put in; windows, doors and a fireplace added; the outside veneered with rock, the roof covered with asbestos shingles and suitable furniture installed. And behold our shelter house, born of enthusiasm, brawn, money and time, all of which we had an abundance — except money. The money must be raised. This the club did mainly by exhibiting farm and garden products at state and county fairs, winning a total of $350 in prize money. Other money was earned by giving dinners and bazaars and having stands at special occasions.

"We have realized our dream. But we still plan to add improvements and beauty to the park as time goes by. Play ground equipment, a long wide, screened-in porch for the shelter house and maybe a swimming pool.

"The benefits and pleasures derived by the children and grown-ups alike, the refreshment of the passing stranger and the good fellowship created in our community is ample reward for all our labor."

No Relaxation On Liquor Rule

KANSAS CITY, May 6—(AP)—An effort to relax rules of the new United Methodist church affecting use of alcohol by members was voted down overwhelmingly by the uniting conference today.

Delegates adopted a proposed section of church discipline providing that any member "who persists in using, buying or selling intoxicating liquors" after a private admonition by his pastor "shall be brought to trial" with expulsion the penalty on conviction.

The Rev. George Fowler of Chicago, asked the conference to make trials discretionary, arguing, "I want to give my full time to fighting the liquor traffic and not to any victim of the traffic."

His suggestion was voted down after the Rev. F. R. Bayle, of Baltimore, argued "If we by any change of a comma let it be shown to the world that we are letting up in our opposition to the liquor traffic it will be misunderstood."

The liquor section of the new discipline also forbids any member to sign a petition for a liquor license, to act as attorney for anyone seeking a license, or to rent property for use in the sale or manufacture of liquors.

The section was adopted verbatim from the discipline of the northern branch of the church. A minister said the south church discipline did not make a trial mandatory for a member "using" liquor, but that difference was not discussed.

Hurrying toward adjournment next Wednesday, delegates will select Monday, in the first of next week's six business sessions, the nine members and nine alternate members of the new church's judicial council or "supreme court."

The convention did not reach today a committee report proposing liberalization of the church's rules on divorce.

Injured In Leap During Fire

Karl G. Johnson, 600 South Grand avenue, salesman for the Parke, Davis Drug Company, is confined to his home with a bruised right leg and sprained left knee, suffered when he escaped from the Madison hotel, Jefferson City during the fire Thursday night.

Mr. Johnson had a room on the top, or fourth floor of the hotel, where he had been registered a couple of days. He was in his room writing orders when he heard a crackling noise. Believing it was thunder he went to the window, looked out, and seeing a clear sky, just supposed he was mistaken. The lights in the room flickered on and off, and still believing it was a storm, he went to the window again.

Not seeing any sign of a storm he decided the nose he heard was a carpet sweeper in the hall, so he opened the door into the hall. A gust of black smoke swept into the room.

Mr. Johnson went to the window and jumped out onto a roof below. He thought of his bags and contents, and crawled back into his rm, hurriedly packed his into his room, hurriedly packed his bags, and jumped again. Form that roof to another lower one eight or ten feet at a time, until he reached the ground.

Mr. Johnson had parked his new Packard car in front of the hotel. Firemen were compelled to break one of the windows to get inside and move the car, which Mr. Johnson later that night drove home.

Ball Reenters Railway Realm

CLEVELAND, May 6—(AP)—Through a strange sequence of fortune and fate, sprightly, 76-year-old George A. Ball is again the apparent master of one of America's greatest railroad networks—the 23,000-mile, $3,000,000,000 empire amassed by the Van Sweringen brothers.

Ball, who rescued the Van Sweringens from financial quicksand only to find himself directing their railroads on their death, disposed of the control two years ago. He obtained, from a New York stock broker and associates $4,000,000 cash and a $2,375,000 note.

Yesterday, that note, backed by 1,200,000 shares of Alleghany Corp. stock, fell due. Today, undramatically, Ball announced its default and his re-entry into railroading.

Thomas H. Jones, attorney for a charitable foundation set up by Ball, telephoned Cleveland editors this bare announcement:

"Messrs. Robert R. Young and Allan P. Kirby and their associates have surrendered to the foundation the 1,200,000 shares of Alleghany Corp. common stock held as collateral for their $2,375,000 note, thus revesting to the foundation the foundation ownership of such stock."

Young is the 42-year-old New Yorker who joined Kirby and others in taking over, in 1937, the control of Alleghany Corp., top holding company for the Chesapeake & Ohio and other railroads.

Partisans of Young were quick to deny that surrender of the stock meant immediate control for Ball's foundation. They said Ball could not muster sufficient stock to call a special stockholders' meeting, with the result present directors would remain at the throttle at least until the next regular meeting in May, 1940.

But Young's hold on the empire has seemed to be crumbling for several months, financial men pointed out. C. & O.'s board was enlarged, over his protest, to include representatives of New York's Guaranty Trust Co., and last month he was dropped from two imporant directors' committees of this road, highly profitable key of the Van Sweringen group.

Widow Of Judge C. B. Faris Dies

ST. LOUIS, May 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles B. Faris, 66, widow of the late U. S. circuit court of appeals judge and former Democratic national committeewoman from Missouri, died at her home tonight.

Mrs. Faris had been bedfast for three years since suffering a cerebral hemorrhage in May, 1936. Her husband died last Dec. 18 after serving more than 25 years on the state supreme court and federal benches.

She was widely known in Democratic circles, having served as committeewoman from 1928 until 1936.

Mrs. Faris twice headed the Missouri division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and once was Democratic president of the League of Women Voters when the organization had presidents representing both parties.

She was the daughter of a Cass county Methodist minister, and was married to Faris in 1894.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at the second Presbyterian church here, in the affairs of which she had been active most of her life here.

The four children who survive her include Mrs. Harold J. Moore of Brookfield, Mo.

Four Die In A Train Truck Crash

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., May 6. (AP)—Four persons were killed early today when a northbound Atlantic Coast Line freight train and a gasoline transport truck collided, causing fire that burned nine boxcars, four motor cars and two houses.

A. F. Buchanan, engineer, of Rocky Mount and George W. Barbee of Fayetteville, the truck driver, were killed outright. Early Powers of Rocky Mount, the fireman and F. H. Fowler, jr., brakeman, died in a hospital.

The gushing gasoline, pouring into a sewer, caused several minor explosions on near-by streets.

Eighteen Years Sentence to Dr. W. F. LaMance

Jury Finds Him Guilty In Slaying of Wife August 9

KEYTESVILLE, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Handsome Dr. William F. LaMance, 33, Laclede osteopath, convicted today of killing his wife, Ella, last August 9, condemned the verdict in bitter words and laid plans for an appeal.

"If ever a man was railroaded, I am the man," he said a few minutes after the jury returned its verdict convicting him of second degree murder and recommending an 18-year prison term.

"I didn't kill Ella and I know it."

Chief Defense Attorney Vane Thurlo immediately filed a motion for a new trial, a step preliminary to an appeal. It will be argued July 1.

Takes Verdict Calmly

"I know that when this case gets before a fair and impartial body it will be reversed." said the osteopath's mother, Mrs. W. N. LaMance, discussing the verdict.

The husky osteopath, seated with an arm on the shoulders of his mother and his father, the Rev. W. N. LaMance, Manitou Springs, Colo., evangelist, received the verdict calmly, as did his mother. The father, however, sobbed and pounded a table with his hand.

The jury's recommendation for an 18-year sentence is mandatory upon Judge James S. Rooney, who had instructed the jury not to consider a charge of first degree murder, which carried a possible death sentence.

Prosecuting attorneys charged Dr. LaMance killed Mrs. LaMance the night of August 9, hid her body in a fruit cellar and then faked a search for her which ended August 15 with discovery of the body. They contended he killed her because she chided him for drinking.

The jury received the case last night, but did not begin deliberations until shortly after noon. Members said a conviction was voted the first ballot and discussed the sentence recommendation. The entire deliberations required two hours and 57 minutes.

Dr. LaMance was permitted to retain his liberty under the $15,000 bond posted for his trial appearance.

Capture Fred Smith In Chase

Sedalian Jailed In Looting Of A Freight Car

After gunfire had failed to stop Fred Smith when he fled to evade officers who surprised him pilfering the contents of a Missouri Pacific box car Friday night, he was overtaken and captured by Officer Howard Nelson.

Another man, who was with Smith, managed to escape. Smith, 58, who lives at 1323 East Fourth street, was observed by Officers Nelson and Don Mahoney, when they were making their rounds in the patrol car. The box car was standing two blocks east of Engineer street.

The officers recovered about $200 worth of articles from Smith, including blocks of babbit metal, connections, etc. They think other things are still missing from the car.

Fire Several Shots.

When the police rushed the two men, they ran from the car. Mahoney and Nelson fired several shots over their heads in an attempt to halt them, and then gave chase.

Nelson was chasing Smith and caught him about a block away while the other man proved a faster runner.

Several pieces of the stolen property were found in the back yard of Smith's residence and the rest of the loot was laying in a "weed patch" about 60 yards from the freight car.

Said He Was Alone

Smith, upon being questioned readily admitted his part in the theft but said that he was alone and had done the whole job himself. According to the police, he could not have carried all the stolen goods by himself.

They were believed by police to be carrying the property to a weed patch where they hid and then carried it to the Smith residence.

The rear of the police wagon was filled with the goods, ranging from "nuts and bolts to 25 pound blocks of babbitt."

Fatal Shooting Over A Dog

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Charles Hovis, 54, died with a gunshot wound in the head late today, the result, sheriff's deputies said, of an argument this morning over a dog.

Russell Gabriel, assistant county prosecutor, said Fred Humphrey, a farmer living four miles southeast of here, was questioned in connection with the shooting.

Gabriel said county officers reported Humphrey told them he shot Hovis with a small rifle after the latter apparently became angered over a dog on the Humphrey farm he believed was rabid. Gabriel said Humphrey related he went to see the dog and it appeared normal. When he returned to Hovis, the latter assaulted him.

The shooting followed.

$22,612 For County Aged

JEFFERSON CITY, May 8—(AP)—The social security commission received delayed federal funds for May old age grants today and began at once the task of speeding checks to 75,526 recipients.

Administrator George I. Haworth said the checks all would be in the mails by Thursday. The number of recipients represents a decrease of thirty from April, but the size of the average grant increased 4 cents to $18.71.

Total May payments will be $1,413,224, an increase of $2,930 over the preceding month.

The check from Washington carried $789,921 in old age funds and $75,374 for May aid to dependent children payments. The checks for the latter form of relief will be mailed either at the end of this week or the first of next.

The federal government pays half of the grants to aged persons, one-third of the child aid checks.

State officials said no explanation for the delay in the May funds was given by the federal board other than press of business. The Missouri commission expressed a fear last month that Washington might hold up the state's money because of "inadequate" legislative appropriations for administration in 1939-40.

The May recipients and payments by counties, included:

Boone, 936, $15, 155; Buchanan, 1,870, $35,922; Butler, 597, $10,810; Cape Girardeau, 538, $8,376; Cole, 388, $7,056; Greene, 2,068, $43,369; Grundy, 519, $8,840; Jackson, 7,548, $158,869; Jasper, 2,274, $47,323; Livingston, 622, $11,072; Marion, 842, $14,210; Nodaway, 705, $13,949; Pettis, 1,073, $22,612; Randolph, 895, $16,558; St. Louis City, 8,028, $172,014; St. Louis county, 1,925, $35,216; and Vernon, 854, $17,517.

Appointments By Park Board

Official Opening of Parks Today For Summer

The park board, composed of J. E. Norlin, chairman, W. E. Scotten, secretary, J. W. Reid, treasurer, Roy S. Hill and Dr. F. O. Murphy met Friday night and transacted considerable business relative to Sedalia's three parks, Liberty, Washington and Hubbard.

The following appointments were made:

Custodian, Liberty Park, Arthur Kullman, reappointed, salary $100 per month.

Assistant, Frank Pfeiffer, reappointed, salary $60.

Watchman, S. W. Chambers, reappointed, salary $60.

Custodian, Washington park, A. P. Beazley, reappointed, salary $60.

Custodian, Hubbard park, Richard Marshall, salary $40.

The parks of the city are being officially opened today for the public to enjoy during the summer months. Everything possible is being done to make them attractive playgrounds and places for recreation.

The M. K. T. Railroad company has supplied two car loads of chat for improving the driveways at Washington park. Because this ground is owned by the M. K. T. hospital association and not the city of Sedalia, Mr. Norlin asked F. G. Buchanan, Sedalia freight agent, and C. W. Watts, superintendent, if it would be possible for that company to supply the chat. Mr. Norlin offered, on behalf of the park board, to pay the freight charges, loading and unloading. The Katy officials responded at once by not only sending the chat, but paying all shipping expenses.

Repairs Are Made

The benches and chairs at this park have been repaired, painted, and a number of new ones added. There are two new tennis courts and croquet grounds laid out.

The tulips now in bloom are particularly beautiful.

The board is considering plans to improve Hubbard park. They hope to have a shelter house and improve the playground equipment.

Liberty park, always one of the prettiest parks in central Missouri, is also undergoing improvements. Work is going forward on the lake which is a WPA project, and the large acreage is being kept attractive, with its roadways, flowers, shrubs and trees.

Report To Court By Commission

The commission appointed by Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, composed of C. C. Gentry, J. B. Greer and J. C. Longan, to appraise damages, if any, to property through which a farm to market road will be constructed, running south of Sedalia by way of Marshall avenue to the county line, reported today.

Their report states:

To the property of August and Rosa Weller, et al, $300.

To the property of Albert Eichhols, et al, no damages.

To the property of Josephine Schupp, et al, $75.

The highway department of Missouri, which filed the condemnation suit, will appeal from this decision.

New Head For The Bankers

J. P. Huston, cashier of the Wood and Huston Bank at Marshall, Missouri, elected president of the Missouri Bankers Association at the 49th annual convention at Excelsior Springs is familiarly known among his host of friends by the name Percy, comes from a family of bankers. His grandfather, Joseph Huston, was one of the founders of the Wood and Huston Bank, which started in 1874. J. P. Houston, the father of Percy, was fifth president of the Missouri Bankers Association.

The great-grandfather of Percy, Judge Joseph Huston, won fame through having built the old tavern at Arrow Rock, Saline County. This tavern, which was built in 1830, was a famous stopping point for frontiersmen and travelers when civilization was marching westward.

The new president of the Missouri Bankers Association, has had his mind centered on banking ever since he was a boy. Even during the time when he was in high school he worked around the bank after school hours and during the summer months. When he finished high school he spent one year at Missouri Valley College in Marshall, and then went to the University of Missouri, all the time working at the bank during his vacation period. In 1918, at the close of the World War and after he had finished his sophomore year at the university, he decided to quit school and take up permanent duties at the bank. He has been in the bank ever since.

Mr. Huston is active in civic affairs, having served a term as president of the Marshall Chamber of Commerce, and a number of years as director. At present he is a director in the Marshall Floral Company and is an officer and director in the McKinney Chevrolet Motor Company of his home city.

In 1926 Mr. Huston married Dorothy Curran, daughter of Hugh J. Curran of Kansas City. The Hustons have two boys, one 10 and one 11 years of age.

Mr. Huston has no hobby unless it be banking. "I don't care for outdoor sports, such as fishing, hunting or golf," said Mr. Huston, "And practically all my time is spent in the banking business."

Coronation Service At The Baptist Church

Attractive Event Presented There Sunday Night

Midst an attractive setting of spring flowers, the coronation services of the Girl's auxiliary of the Women's Missionary society was held at the First Baptist church on Sunday evening. The stage was banked with ferns, spirea, and purple iris, with a background of white crepe paper streamers touched with silver. The chairs were covered with white slips and a large candelabrum holding six white candles was placed at each side of the stage.

Mrs. W. O. Stanley, W. M. U. president in introducing the program said, "The future of our church depends upon the education of our youth and this program will exemplify a small portion of the training which is being given the youth of our church under the direction of the Women's Missionary society."

The W. M. U. hymn, "I Love to Tell the Story" was played as a cornet solo by Chester Kirkpatrick. Queen Rose Marie Reed played a violin solo, "The Holy City."

Following the exemplification of the work of the maidens, ladies in waiting and the princesses, the five queens approached the stage. The junior queens wore white formals and the intermediate queens were attired in green. The counselors, Mrs. Gordon Strain and Mrs. M. L. Edwards, wearing white satin formals, crowned the queens as they knelt in a semicircle. Following the exemplification of their work the W. M. U. queen, Mrs. Stanley, attired in a white satin robe with a royal purple train and wearing a gold crown, presented the queens with A. G. pins.

The three queens of scepter, dressed in white formals and wearing gold crowns marched to the stage, knelt, and were presented scepters by Mrs. W. L. Fuqua and Mrs. Edwards.

Miss Darlene Soter, queen regent, lovely in an orchid formal, wearing a gold crown and carrying a scepter advanced to the stage, knelt and was presented the emblem of the queen regent, a beautiful green satin cape, lined with white. Immediately the queens and queens of scepter formed a semicircle around her and Mrs. Carl Oswald sang, "Ready." Miss Soter then gave the history of the Southern Baptist Convention and of the Baptist World Alliance.

Mrs. Fuqua introduced Miss Elma Currin, State Young People's leader who in a very impressive ceremony gave the charge to these queens. It was an inspirational sight as these nine girls in their white, green and orchid formals knelt in a semi-circle and listened attentively to the charge as given by Miss Currin who wore a rose taffeta formal. Miss Currin stated that the G. A. was the largest denominational organization for teen age girls in the world and that these girls should shine as the brightness of the firmanent. She said, "I charge you in the name of Christ to live up to all you have learned, to walk in queenly paths, to accept responsibility and because you are young and your life is ahead of you I charge you to fill it with queenly deeds and to always crown Christ upon the throne of your heart and 'walk in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.'"

Appropriate songs were interspersed and sung by a chorus of Y. W. A.'s and R. A.'s. Mrs. Glenn Kirkpatrick accompanied at the piano. Mrs. W. L. Fuqua, Mrs. M. L. Edwards, Mrs. Gordon Strain, Mrs. L. E. Hyatt, Mrs. Carl Oswald, Mrs. Roy Duncan, and Carl Yessen were the Counselors in charge of this program and wish to express appreciation to all who assisted in any way. The beautiful lighting effects were under the direction of Donald Decker.

Discovers Hull of Ancient Craft

MANTEO, Roanoke Island, N. C,. May 8—(AP)—Alpheus W. Drinkwater, who was, in a way, one of the midwives of the birth of aviation, would bet his last telegraph key that the hull of a ship, uncovered by a storm recently on the everchanging dunes, is a 16th century craft.

Drinkwater, the telegraph operator who first flashed to the world the news of the Wright brothers' flight at Kitty Hawk in 1903, spoke of the ancient hull with the enthusiasm of an antiquarian as he awaited the arrival of an official from the Marine Museum at Newport News, Va., to study the wreck.

Meanwhile, as a precaution against souvenir hunters, the coast guard stood watch over the vessel, which Drinkwater believes might have plied the treacherous waters on the outer banks at the time Sir Walter Raleigh's "lost colony," the first English attempt to settle the new world, was struggling for existence on this island before vanishing to an unknown fate.

The wreck was found, in fact, only about three miles south of Roanoke Island, and, after assiduous delving through ancient books on marine craft, Drinkwater made a significant discovery—the vessel had the dimensions of a cromster, a light war vessel developed by Sir Walter Raleigh in the latter part of the 16th century.

"There are many hulls in this section," Drinkwater said, "but not any like this one. She's the oldest one I've ever found, or anybody else around here, for that matter. I'm sure she's better than 300 years old. I'd stake anything on that."

Peace Appeal by Former King

VERDUN, France, May 8—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor addressed from the World War fortress of Verdun tonight an appeal to "all political leaders" to avoid a new world war.

The former British king, making his first broadcast since his historic abdicaton speech of December 11, 1936, said he spoke "simply as a soldier of the last war, whose most earnest prayer it is that such cruel and destructive madness shall never again overtake mankind."

The speech was broadcast to the United States by the National Broadcasting Company, while King George VI, his younger brother and successor, and Queen Elizabeth were crossing the Atlantic for their tour of America.

It was relayed over French government radio stations but was not broadcast in the England over which he once reigned.

The Duke spoke from a radio car brought from Strassbourg to the country inn where he and the Duchess, the former Wallis Warfield of Baltimore, have been staying during a tour of World war battlefields.

Report Woman Dined With Schneider

KANSAS CITY, May 9—(AP)—Federal officials today sought a woman who dined and had a serious conference with Edward L. Schneider, 46, two days before he drowned in the Missouri river. Her identity is not known.

The federal grand jury subpoenaed Otto Schneller, head waiter in the Westport room at the Union station, who said he saw the business aide of Boss Tom Pendergast and the brunette at dinner Saturday evening, April 29, the day Pendergast was indicted the second time for income tax evasion. Just the day before Schneider had told the jurors of financial affairs of his chief and the government charged monies paid ir Schneider's name by Pendergast companies were part of the political leader's income.

'In Serious Conversation'

Schneller said the couple engaged in serious conversation for an hour or longer. Officers said the woman was not Mrs. Schneider, who is blonde.

Possibility of mistaken identity as to Schneider was dispelled when it was learned Schneller had known Schneider as a regular customer at luncheon and sometimes at dinner for months.

Federal agents are seeking to identify the woman through Schneller and others who were in the Westport room for dinner that evening. Additional subpoenaes are expected to be issued and may include both waitresses and customers of the dining room. But officials hope the woman may identity herself and tell the FBI and the jurors what she may know about the last hours of Schneider's life.

Probe of Actions

The jury has been trying to determine where Schneider went and to whom he talked between 12:30 and 2:30 p. m. April 29. They believe it possible he told the woman of his activities or conferred with her concerning his testimony and connections with Pendergast who was indicted that day.

The indictment was returned about noon and thirty minutes after it became public, Schneider walked out of his office at the Ready Mixed Concrete company and was gone two hours. When he returned he appeared greatly disturbed, friends said.

The new development concerning the dinner conflicts with previous reports that Schneider was at his home most or all of Saturday night.

The first witness before the jury today was James Jackson, Negro houseman at the Schneider home. He was followed by Phil Abry, brother-in-law of Schneider.

Awaiting a call before the jury was Otto P. Higgins, former police director who talked to Schneider at his home before he plunged from Fairfax bridge.

Besides Higgins and Jackson, the jury plans to question Carl Braun, Ready Mixed Concrete Company office manager, and Walter Colburn, Midwest Paving Company manager today.

Schneider's brother-in-law, Phil Abry, and Robert P. Lyons, Jr., Ready Mixed Co., superintendent were before the jurors yesterday.

Injured In Fall From An Auto

Mrs. Audrey Bernard, 826 High, Jefferson City, was a patient at the Bothwell hospital Sunday night and this morning. suffering from bruises and scratches, suffered in accident.

Mrs. Bernard was riding in a car with her husband, two miles west of highway 65, on highway 52, about 9 o'clock Sunday night. The car door, opening from the front, was not shut tightly, there being only one of a double catch closed.

A gust of wind blew in through the slight crack and caused the door to open. The suction carried Mrs. Bernard out and she fell in the roadway. Mr. Bernard was going about forty miles an hour.

Mr. Bernard, realizing what had happened, put the brakes on, and the car turned on the roadway and went into a ditch. He was not injured, and the car was slightly damaged.

Other motorists stopped. Mrs. Bernard was picked up and Mr. Bernard assisted in righting his car, which was not damaged so much it could not be driven. Mrs. Bernard was brought to the hospital and taken to her home today.

For Right To Discriminate In Neutrality

Professor Urges Adoption of Such Policy by U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP)—James T. Shotwell, Columbia University professor of international law. today urged adoption of a neutrality policy that would permit the United States to discriminate against an aggressor nation in time of war.

Shotwell told the senate foreign relations committee that he was "in sympathy with" the neutrality bill proposed by Senator Thomas (D-Utah) which would allow the President to designate a treaty violator and recommend to congress restrictions upon its trade with this country.

Criticizing neutrality law provisions which apply equally to all warring nations as surrendering "out neutral rights," the witness said that by providing special treatment for treaty-breaking aggressors "we would to some extent recover our freedom of action without at the same time misleading militaristic governments into the delusion that we had ceased to care for our rights."

Whatever neutrality action is taken, Shotwell emphasized, should be finished before a crisis arises. He urged the committee to avoid extreme policies—either extreme isolationism, which he said the present law represents, or internationalism, which he indicated would result from discarding all such legislation and relying upon international law.

The congressional argument appeared today to be narrowing to a choice between the present law, plus renewal of the "cash and carry" system, and the plan proposed by Senator Pittman (D-Nev.)

This leaves one principal question to be settled: Shall the United States refuse to sell arms and ammunition to warring nations, or shall it agree to make such sales for cash?

States Pessimism Is Unwarranted

WASHINGTON, May 8—(AP)—Secretary Hopkins said today business conditions were sufficiently encouraging to make "unwarranted" the "pessimism" of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The secretary, who has been recovering from an attack of intestinal influenza, declined to discuss tax revision or other specific business proposals because, he said, he had been out of touch with Washington for ten weeks.

Asked at his press conference about the speeches and resolutions of the recent chamber of commerce meeting here, Hopkins said: "They certainly spread a lot of gloom around town.

"There was an awful lot of pessimism and I do not belong to that school of thought. I found it pretty dull reading and none of this pessimism is warranted by the improvement of business on a good many fronts."

The key case was found on the body.

Duke Is Eager On Reaction

VERDUN, France, May 9—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor was represented today as eager to ascertain the reaction of world capitals to his broadcast urging steps to save peace "before it is too late."

Associates said the duke was "delighted" with the broadcast. They insisted it was not a venture toward political activity and said the duke's brother, King George of England, had approved it.

The duke now was concerned, one informant stated, with seeing whether his plea would have any effect. (The British broadcasting company did not relay the broadcast through the empire, but it was carried by London newspapers, some of which expressed the view it was "untimely").

The duke urged "all political leaders" to rise above "purely national interests" to negotiate by "Mutual concessions in which conflicting claims can be adjusted."

It was his first broadcast since Dec. 11, 1936, when he yielded the crown to George VI in order to wed the American-born Wallis Warfield.

He suggested an end to "harmful propaganda" and deplored the "use of such terms as 'encirclement' and 'aggression'."

The duke and duchess appeared at a third story window after the broadcast to accept the cheers of the crowd.
